DISROBING ON STAGE BANNED

Censors Warn Vaudeville Artists About Tossing Garters Away; Jokes Must Be Proper

Vaudeville actresses who specialize in feminine disrobing acts on the stage will omit that feature of their performances in Boston hereafter.

They will particularly refrain from hurling any of their clothing—garters, hose or whatnot—into the audience.

And all vaudeville acts will eliminate suggestive chatter and "patter" and songs and so forth from their turns.

Rules to that effect were announced today by the City Board of Censors at a gathering of vaudeville managers who had been summoned to the Mayor's office.

The censoring board consists of Chief Justice Bolster of the City Court, Police Commissioner O'Meara and Licensing Clerk Casey. The board sent word to the managers of all Boston vaudeville houses to appear.

The managers were told that the so-called "disrobing act" will not be allowed hereafter.

If a vaudeville actress has clothing to give away she may box it up and send it to the poor, but she cannot shed her garments on the stage and gaily distribute them among the "bald-heads" or other patrons of the house.

The managers were told, too, that complaints have been made by clergymen of suggestive jokes and lines in vaudeville acts. These must cease, the censors declared.

Vaudeville managers have protested at times that actors will "spring" undesirable lines even against house orders. The censors have a way to meet this, however. They told the managers that a list of offending acts will be kept and that, if the rules are broken, the transgressors will not be allowed to appear on Boston stages.

20 WOMEN HURT IN COLLAPSE OF STAND

Twenty women, members of the cast of the Y. M. C. A. show, "Behind the Scenes," were slightly injured and badly frightened when a temporary stand in which they were seated collapsed in the Lynn Women's Clubhouse during the performance.

Miss Ethel Fleming fainted and members of the audience leaped to their feet in terror, but a panic was averted by Edward Thompson, who coolly continued to sing a topical song.

The stand was a flimsy structure, according to the police, erected on the stage simply to be used during this performance. It consisted of several rows of seats, on which the twenty women were disposed. Their combined weight proved too heavy for one of the supports, which broke, and the entire stage crashed to the floor, carrying the women with it.

It was stated that no one was seriously hurt, but many are nursing bruises.

'GUILTY U-BOAT SUNK'

Paris Says Captured Crew Has Admitted Their Craft Torpedoed the Channel Liner Sussex

By CHARLES F. BERTELLI,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, April 13.—The German submarine which torpedoed the Channel liner Sussex was sunk on April 5, it was officially announced today. The U-boat's identity is fully known to the French government. Its commander and crew are understood to be prisoners in a prison camp of the allies.

The official press bureau of the Ministry of Marine issued the following statement in reply to the German claims that the Sussex was not torpedoed:

"We could publish the name of the commander and the number of the submarine which attacked the Sussex, as well as the story of her journeyings prior to the crime. This submarine was destroyed on April 5 and her officers and crew confirm all the information we possess in this matter."

The Sussex disaster occurred on March 24. The sinking of the submarine, therefore, occurred twelve days later.

U. S. Drafts on "Ultimatum"

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, April 13. — Germany will be afforded an opportunity to reframe and re-issue pledges that international law will be observed by her submarine commanders. President Wilson has so decided and a formal communication setting forth with a wealth of detail what the United States regards as improper action by German U-boat officers is being drafted.

It will be considered and probably approved at tomorrow's Cabinet session, at which time the German reply claiming privilege in the sinking of various vessels and denying responsibility for the disaster to the channel steamer Sussex will be discussed.

The United States will not accept the German claim that the Sussex was not torpedoed. It was made plain at the White House today that the proposed communication to Berlin will not be open to discussion or lengthy diplomatic exchanges. In many respects, it is said, it will resemble an ultimatum in that it will insist that the United States will no longer tolerate a violation of pledges.

While the question has not yet been definitely decided it is not expected that the German suggestion that the Sussex case is open to arbitration will be accepted.

Full text of the German note on torpedoings will be found on Page 5.

NOBLEMAN SOUGHT IN PLOTS

Friend of Von Papen Declared to Be Leader of Band That Put Fire Bombs on Steamships

By International News Service.

New York, April 13.—Additional arrests are expected within the next forty-eight hours in the latest pro-German bomb plot to blow up at sea ships carrying war supplies to the allies.

Four men who were taken into custody last night are said by the police to have figured in pro-German activities which have caused damage of $1,000,000 by fires on land and explosions on shipboard at sea.

The authorities are also seeking a secret bomb factory in the vicinity of Harrison, N. J., in addition to the one discovered in Hoboken. Meanwhile the four prisoners were again subjected to a severe grilling today in an effort to compel them to disclose the supposed location of a quantity of hidden bombs.

Among those for whom the police are said to be looking are Dr. W. P. Steele, a chemist; A. Scheeker, and a German nobleman, alleged leader of the plotters, who is an intimate friend of Captain von Papen and Captain Boy-Ed, the recalled naval attache to the German embassy at Washington.

One of the men arrested is Charles von Kleist, sixty-seven, a retired German naval captain, living at Hoboken. He is a brother-in-law of General von Kleisen, who was killed four weeks ago at the front. He is a cousin of the late Prince Bismarck.

Another prisoner is Captain Otto Wolpert, forty-four, superintendent of the Atlas Steamship Company's pier. He lives in Bloomfield, N. J.

Captain Richard Tobin of the Wave guessed that, as the three men were not exhausted, they had been adrift about half a day.

The name "Elva L. Spurling" on the dories showed from what vessel the three were lost.

CAVALRY IN CLASH AT PARRAL

General Funston Gets Report of Skirmish Between Mexicans and Thompson's Troopers

By L. V. B. RUCKER,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

San Antonio, Texas, April 13.—American soldiers were fired upon at Parral yesterday. Major General Funston was officially notified of the matter today. The report to him, however, made no mention of casualties.

The fire was returned by the American soldiers. The first news of the engagement came from General Gutierrez, Carranzista commander in Chihuahua, it being transmitted through American Agent Letcher, now at Chihuahua city.

The message from General Gutierrez said that Villistas and citizens of Parral, a railroad centre in southern Chihuahua, "exchanged shots" with the Americans because the arrival of the latter at Parral had been a surprise. It is believed possible that some Carranzistas may have participated in the exchange of shots.

General Gutierrez explained that he did not know that Americans had advanced so far to the southward. General Funston believed that the men fired upon were two troops of the Thirteenth United States Cavalry under Major Tompkins, who led the party that pursued Villa's band into Mexico immediately after the raid upon Columbus, N. M.

General Funston is very suspicious that the "Villistas" who fired on the American cavalry at Parral were Carranzistas. General Gutierrez made a rather elaborate explanation that the arrival of the Americans was a surprise, but this is regarded here as strange in view of the fact that the United States soldiers have been in the vicinity of Parral for nearly a week.

MEXICAN CRISIS IS GRAVE

U. S. Troops "for Present" Will Not Be Withdrawn Is Washington's Attitude on Carranza Note

By International News Service.

Washington, April 13.—The United States will not withdraw its forces from interior Mexico at present.

That was the position taken by officialdom today in discussing the demand of the de facto Mexican government contained in the communication sent to Ambassador Designate Arredondo for transmission to Secretary of State Lansing by Candido Aguilar, Mexican foreign secretary.

Until the note has been thoroughly considered by President Wilson and Secretary Lansing no official statement of position will be made. But at both the White House and State Department officials said that the expedition would continue its pursuit of Villa for the present.

Officials familiar with the Mexican situation said that it was almost certain that this government would make a reply to the note in which it would ask that Carranza explain in what manner he was ready to take over the task of getting Villa.

DISCUSS ALLEGATIONS.

It will discuss the allegation that the expedition entered Mexico under a mistaken idea of the Carranzista government's willingness that it take that step. But the United States will not concede, officials say, that it has not the right, under established precedent, to pursue bandits who have murdered American citizens in their own homes until they are killed or captured.

How far this policy is to be pursued no one in Washington was willing to venture to guess today. That will be determined by the President himself. The majority of his advisers are said to be in favor of adopting a stiff attitude toward Carranza in the belief that if this is done, the Mexican de facto government will accept the inevitable and will make no effort to interfere with the American forces.

But it is admitted that the President may overrule that suggestion if he is convinced that the Carranzista government really is in earnest in its

MEXICAN ENVOY CALLS TO DELIVER NOTE.

Washington, April 13.—Mexican Ambassador Designate Arredondo called at the State Department this afternoon to deliver to Secretary Lansing the note of the Mexican de facto government demanding the withdrawal of American troops from that country.

TIME FOR U. S. TROOPS TO GET OUT OF MEXICO, CARRANZA TELLS WILSON

THE expedition sent by the United States goverment to pursue Villa is without foundation in virtue of the non-existence of a previous agreement formal and definite. And as that expedition has fulfilled its object in so far as it will be able to do so, as the party headed by Villa has already been dispersed; and, finally, because there are Mexican troops in sufficient number pursuing them, and more forces are being sent to exterminate the rest of the beaten party, the First Chief of the Constitutionalist army charged with the executive power of the nation, considers that it is already time to treat with the United States government for the withdrawal of their forces from our territory.—From the Carranza note to the United States. (See complete note on Page 3) declaration that it can get Villa with its own forces.

The situation confronting this government is extremely serious. High army officers fear that as soon as the Aguilar note reaches the Carranzista forces in Northern Mexico they may attack the American forces. They say that the position of the Pershing advance guard is extremely dangerous. The cavalry is short of supplies, the horses are almost completely exhausted, and if attacked by strong forces would be in danger of annihilation.

Many of the high staff officers here declare that at least 30,000 additional men are urgently needed and favor an immediate call for the National Guard.

Secretary Baker conferred at length with Secretary Lansing today, and it was admitted that the Mexican situation was the topic of discussion.

Baker presented to his colleague all of the reports from General Funston dealing with the difficulties in getting supplies to the front and urging that the situation be remedied immediately. It is understood that Secretary Baker also presented reports showing the disposition of the Carranzista troops at points where they are a serious menace to the American lines of communication.

Neither of the officials would discuss their conference or say whether any definite decision was reached. They planned to confer with the President late today if possible.

NOTE TRANSLATED.

The text of the Aguilar note reached the Mexican embassy early today and Ambassador Designate Arredondo immediately translated it in person.

He planned to present it in person to Secretary Lansing some time during the afternoon, but as this was diplomatic day it was not necessary for him to make a definite engagement.

Several of the South American ambassadors and ministers discussed the general Mexican situation with Secretary Lansing during the day, but none of them would say anything on leaving, explaining that they had been requested not to talk.

The Aguilar note was the chief topic of conversation in Congress today.

Senator Gallinger, Republican leader in the Senate, predicted that "Unless the administration is ready to turn tail" in Mexico the President would consult Congress as a result of the demand for the withdrawal of the American troops pursuing Villa.

"The Carranza note today is just what a good many of us have been expecting for some time," said Senator Gallinger. "I suppose the troops will have to be withdrawn. It will be a very humiliating spectacle, but there aren't enough of them to finish the job."

"COMEDY OF ERRORS."

"The position of the expeditionary force, already precarious, has been made much more dangerous by the Carranza note.

"It is about 200 miles south of the border and days ago it was difficult to maintain a line of communication and supplies.

"This is just another chapter in the American comedy of errors."

Senator Sherman, of Illinois, who has frequently urged intervention, as the only solution to the Mexican problem, declared that Carranza's demand for the withdrawal of the American troops was not surprising.

"When the administration begins to comprehend the trickery of Mexican diplomacy and the Mexican character it will cease to be surprised by such things," said Senator Sherman. "We should keep our troops in Mexico until we have cleaned it up."

BORAH WOULD KEEP ARMY IN MEXICO UNTIL VILLA IS CAUGHT

"If I were at the head of this government I would send word to Carranza that I was going to keep the American troops in Mexico until I got Villa.

"I would so notify him in such plain and unmistakable language that there could be no diplomatic misunderstanding.

"It is a known fact that Carranza has been concentrating troops in Pershing's rear during the past week, and the expeditionary force might be massacred in its present isolated position."—Senator Borah on the Mexican note demanding withdrawal of United States troops.

Mexicans Now in Pershing's Rear

By WALLACE E. SMITH,

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

El Paso, Texas, April 13.—General Pershing's expedition in Mexico, estimated to number now 14,000 men, is surrounded today by more than twice that number of Carranzistas waiting for a diplomatic "show down" that must follow the de facto Mexican government's demand that the United States troops be withdrawn.

This fact was clearly shown in all reports reaching the border today from Mexico. They revealed that Minister of War Obregon is sending Carranza troops to advantageous tactical points along the American line of communications.

General Arnulfo Gomez, who has dramatically announced that he will be known in history as "black Gomez" because of the number of "Gringoes" he will kill, is headed eastward from Sonora with a force of about 5,000 men. General Obregon has ordered 4,500 men into Cusihuiriachic district, where General Pershing's most advanced sub-base is located. Another force of 2,500 is reported to be on its way toward the American front from farther south.

The American State Department has already been apprised that 10,000 Mexican troops have taken positions between the United States troops and the border. In addition to these, there are regular Carranza commands all along the line of advance. The American forces are scattered along a line of communication 400 miles long.

The official Carranza explanation for these military movements is that "Villa must be pursued," but border observers say that the situation seems obvious: that Carranza troops are prepared to back up Carranza's demand that the United States troops be withdrawn.

Mexican officials here privately told me today that they regarded the situation as a distinct diplomatic triumph for First Chief Carranza. They believe that President Wilson cannot keep the American troops in Mexico under the circumstances without violating the international agreement.

A high Mexican official, on condition that his name not be used, gave out the following to the International News Service:

"President Wilson will have to withdraw the Pershing expedition. There is no other answer. We can handle Villa ourselves. We have known all along that this was coming.

"It has long been the habit of the United States to look upon our diplomats as pelados (low class Mexicans), but this situation has vindicated our agents.

"We now have more troops in the field than the United States. We feel that the Pershing expedition really was an invasion, but that it was all a mistake and will be forgiven if withdrawal comes quickly."

"And if it doesn't?" was suggested.

"Ah!" with a smile and a shrug, "who can tell?"

It is known that General Funston has asked for more troops to handle the situation.

From a military viewpoint the American forces will be in a serious predicament if President Wilson refuses to grant Carranza's demands.

The hunt for Francisco Villa was overshadowed today by the tension developing over the Carranza demands. One report said the bandit chief was in the Sistine valley parleying with the Arrieta brothers, who control 3,000 men. Another said that he had arrived at Guadaloupe y Calvo, a high plateau which forms a natural fortress.

Mexican advices said that American troopers pursuing Villa had crossed the Durango state line and proceeded as far as Rasallo, but had returned into Chihuahua when their supplies were exhausted.

Town Sacked by Villa Bandits

El Paso, Texas, April 13.—A large band of Villa followers, possibly a thousand in number, have sacked Sierra Mojada, five miles across the Coahuila line and eighty miles east of Jiminez, destroying many thousands of dollars' worth of American property and looting the town of everything of value.

One rumor was that Villa was with the bandits.

This news was received here by the representative of one of the largest American mining concerns in Mexico and is accepted by him as authentic.

The bandits made their attack on the town on April 5. They came from Escalon, a junction point on the Mexican National Railroad, sixty miles southeast of Jiminez and about an equal distance southwest of Sierra Mojada, which has its connection by the Mexican Northern Railroad. On their way to Sierra Mojada they sacked the small town of Cerrillo.

THINK VILLA IN ATTACK.

The rumor that Villa himself may be directing the operations of these bandits was thought by some to be supported by a report from Ojinaga, stating that Colonel Rojas, the commander there, had information that Villa had doubled in his tracks and was 200 miles southwest of that town. Ojinaga is directly across the border from Presido, Texas, and about 150 miles north of Sierra Mojada.

Another circumstance that gives color to this location of the bandit chief is the fact that Canuto Reyes, at the head of a large number of men, was reported from Torreon a week ago to be traveling north in the direction of Sierra Mojada. It was the belief at the time in Torreon that Villa's ally was on his way to join his chief.

Sierra Mojada is 140 miles east of the nearest point at which American troops are known to be.

EXPECT RAID ON TORREON.

It is on the eastern side of a vast desert known as the Bolson Mapimi and south of another dreary, waterless waste called Bolson De Los Lipanes. Its only communication with the west is by the Mexican Northern Railroad, along which the bandits advanced, burning bridges, destroying telegraph lines and tearing up the tracks as far as they were able.

Little credence is given reports here from Ojinaga that Villa plans to turn north and attempt a raid on Presidio.

It is believed far more probable that the bandit, if he is at Sierra Mojada, has chosen that desolate and almost inaccessible spot for the concentration of his forces and those of Canuto Reyes with the intention of sweeping down in force on Torreon after the American troops are withdrawn from Mexico. Numerous reports from Mexican sources agree that Villa is convinced the soldiers of the United States will soon be recalled and that he will then be able to rally all the anti-Carranza factions in northern Mexico to his standard.

Orders Wholesale Villista Killing

By International News Service.

El Paso, Texas, April 13.—Mexican War Minister Obregon has ordered General Gavira, commander at Juarez, to kill every Villa sympathizer in the city, according to reports brought across the Rio Grande today.

There are now about twenty-five prisoners in the Juarez jail, charged with being Villistas, who, if this order is carried out, will be executed.

Funston Silent on Carranza Note

By L. V. B. RUCKER.

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

San Antonio, Tex., April 13.—Major-General Funston today refused to comment on the Carranza government's demand for the withdrawal of American troops in Mexico. He declared he would have nothing to say until he heard from Washington.

Among the officers here the recent movements of Carranza troops in Sonora are believed to have been made in expectation of such a demand being made on the American government.

WOMEN STRIKE FOR DEFINITE INCREASE

Lawrence, April 13.—Several hundred women employed in the Pacific mills went on strike this morning because they were not granted a specific increase of 10 per cent. in wages. The officials of the mill have promised an increase, but no notices were posted today to that effect.

Everett Mills officials today announced that a wage increase would go into effect at the plant Monday. About 4,000 operatives will benefit.

The officials of the Wright Braid Mills here also stated that a 10 per cent. increase has been granted to their 800 employes.

TURKEY GIVES UP MOVING ARMENIANS

Washington, April 13.—The Turkish government today notied the State Department it had ceased sending Armenians from towns to the interior of the country. Great pressure had been brought to bear on the Turkish government against its action in driving Armenians out of the towns as they were unable to get food supplies.

Washington, April 13.—The following is the complete text of the Carranza note to the United States, in effect an ultimatum demanding the removal of American troops from Mexican soil.

The note was sent from Queretaro, Mexico, to Eliseo Arredondo, Carranza representative in Washington, for formal delivery to Secretary of State Lansing.

Your Excellency, Robert Lansing, Secretary of the United States, Washington:

The Mexican government in its desire to conserve cordial and unchangeable good relations of friendship which ought to exist between Mexico and the United States as much for the sentiment that animates this government as for a desire of satisfying the spirit of Article 23 of the Treaty of Friendship celebrated between both countries on February 2, 1848, and in view of the lamentable happenings that took place in Columbus on March 9, last, and remembering the historical antecedents in similar cases, did not hesitate to make to the government of the United States under date of March 10 a proposal by means of which the forces of one and the other could reciprocally cross the dividing line in pursuit of bandits if unfortunately there should be repeated along the border acts like those committed in Columbus.

From the beginning the Mexican government judged that, by reason of the time which had transpired and for the purpose of treating a case already passed the said incident could not continue as a proposal for the reciprocal passing of troops.

It is for this reason that the note of our government, sent on the tenth of March, indicates with all clearness that the proposition contained in it was conditional, or what is the same, that reciprocity could take place only if the irruption registered in Columbus should unfortunately be repeated at any other point of the frontier line.

The American government, relying on the text of said note, and without having penetrated all these conditions of its limitation, but rather believing in the existence of a definite agreement, as is indicated in the terms of its note of March 13, gave expression to its views as follows:

That in view of the consent to this reciprocal agreement proposed by the de facto government of Mexico, this agreement is now complete and in vigor, and the reciprocal privilege previously mentioned may be exercised by each government without a future interchange of ideas.

NOT NOTIFIED, SAYS MEXICO.

It was considered right to send on Mexican territory an expedition which has been called punitive with the object of pursuing and chastising Villa and his party of outlaws, and the expedition was sent some days after the wrongdoers had returned to Mexican territory.

On the 17th day of March the Mexican government sent a note to the American government through our confidential agent in Washington, Licenciado Eliseo Arredondo, stating that the Mexican government had reliable information that without knowledge or the advice of the nearest civil and political authority, and without sending any communication on the part of the American government, a so-called punitive expedition had passed through Palomas with the object of pursuing Villa and his party.

As a consequence the said confidential agent was instructed to call the attention of the United States government to the fact that it was giving a crooked interpretation to the text of the note of March 10, and that the government of Mexico was disposed to sustain its proposal regarding the reciprocal passage of troops, but that an expedition could not be sent in the meantime, as the terms and conditions relative to the agreement were not defined.

This government insisted in its note of March 17th that the reciprocal passage of troops would be permitted only if unfortunately from this forward there should be repeated irruptions like the one registered at Columbus, or of any other kind whatever at any part of the frontier line.

U. S. ACCEPTS AGREEMENT.

In the meantime, the Mexican government, faithful to its proposals and with the intention of fulfilling strictly its compromise, began drawing up a project for the reciprocal passage of troops, which was presented with all form to the United States government, under date of March 13, it being hoped that the terms and conditions established in the said agreement would meet with approval.

The American government, through the medium of our confidential agent, communicated that in principle it accepted the agreement and was only studying the points in detail in order to finish it.

So things went on until the 19th of March, when the Honorable James Linn Rogers, presented a note to our secretary, begging that the corresponding authorities in Chihuahua should give the necessary instructions to permit that some provisions be transported by the Northwest railroad for the American troops pursuing Villa and his party.

MEXICO REPLIES TO NOTE.

On the same date the Mexican government answered the note, manifesting surprise that without any official advices whatever on the part of the United States government American troops had crossed over into Mexican territory and were already in the Casas Grandes or its surroundings.

On the 18th of March, our confidential agent in Washington had an interview with one Frank Polk, then secretary to the State Department, and he expressed to our confidential agent that he deplored not having received the observations of the Mexican government before the passage of American forces over the border, and assured our agent that the passage of these troops took place in the best of faith and in the belief that it would not be necessary to enter into more particulars and details of an agreement which was considered difinite and ended.

CONFIRM DECLARATIONS.

These declarations, made by the Hon. Mr. Polk, were confirmed in all their parts at a conference on March twentythird between our confidential agent and Your Excellency, who stated also that he was sorry at having interpreted wrongly the contents of the said note in respect to the passage of troops, and that they would not advance more to the south of the place where they were.

On the nineteenth of March the Hon. Mr. Polk addressed a letter to our confidential agent in Washington ratifying in writing the conference held on the previous day and expressing in a clear and conclusive manner that it was a motive for sincere lamentation that there had been a bad interpretation as to the attitude of the First Chief relating to the passage of United States troops over the frontier in the pursuit of Villa, and declaring that the State Department of the United States believed that our government had consented plainly to the arrangement proposed in its communication of March tenth from the Secretary of Foreign Affairs, Licenciado Jesus Acuna, which arrangement was accepted by the United States government in its note of March thirteenth.

QUOTES THE PRESIDENT.

In declarations which His Excellency, the Hon. President Wilson, made public on March 26, he expressed himself in the following manner:

"As we have already announced, the expedition was ordered under an agreement with the de fact government of Mexico, for the purpose only of capturing the bandit Villa, whose forces have invaded the territory of the United States, and on no pretext whatever would we order an invasion of that republic or a violation of its sovereignty."

That idea, published by His Excellency, President Wilson, was rectified on March 31, by a message sent to our confidential agent in Washington, in which he was instructed to call your attention to the idea indicated, since the note of March 10 referred to the reciprocal passage of troops only in case that incidents like those which occurred at Columbus should be repeated.

Lastly, on the fifth of the present month, Your Excellency, in delivering to our confidential agent a counter-project of an agreement on the reciprocal passage of troops to be presented for the consideration of the Mexican government, accompanied it with a note declaring that the American government trusted that the conditions contained in the said agreement should not apply to American forces which actually found themselves within Mexican territory at that time in the pursuit of Villa.

Your Excellency further assured us that in exercising that privilege of entering our territory those forces would confine their military operations only to the object of the expedition and that they would retire immediately afterwards to their own country.

NOT TO ABUSE PRIVILEGES.

Your Excellency also expressed your gratefulness to the Mexican government for having, as you stated, reached a compact by means of which the United States forces had permission to pursue Villa and his party in Mexican territory, and stated that the American government found itself disposed to respect the confidence shown it and that it would, by no means, violate Mexico's sovereignty or abuse the privilege so generously and freely granted, it.

Furthermore, the honorable Secretary of the State Department, Mr. Polk, in conference with our confidential agent in Washington, declared that the United States government had acted in all good faith in sending its expedition into Mexico in pursuit of Villa on the supposition that the note of March 10 contained a definite agreement, but that the American government consented to let the expedition remain in Mexican territory only until details of an agreement could be arranged.

ASKS FOR WITHDRAWAL.

In consequence of the fact previously expressed, as no final agreement has been reached as the terms of a treaty to regulate in general the reciprocal passage of troops over the dividing line for the purpose of pursuing outlaws who may henceforth commit depredations in one or the other countries, the Mexican government judges it convenient to suspend for the present all discussion or negotiations in this particular or founded on the circumstance that the expedition sent by the United States government to persue Villa is without foundation in virtue of the non-existence of a previous agreement formal and definite.

And as that expedition has fulfilled its object in so far as it will be able to do so, as the party headed by Villa has already been dispersed; and, finally, because there are Mexican troops in sufficient number pursuing them, and more forces are being sent to exterminate the rest of the beaten party, the First Chief of the Constitutionalist army, charged with the executive power of the nation, considers that it is already time to treat with the United States government for the withdrawal of their forces from our territory.

I take this opportunity to reiterate to Your Excellency my very distinguished estimation and consideration.

EXPERT CALLED ON "TWILIGHT SLEEP"

Worcester, April 13.—Dr. H. Louis Stick, superintendent of the Grafton State Colony of the Worcester Insane Hospital testified today in the contest over the will of Harriet Whitmore of Uxbridge, the allowance of which is being opposed by relatives.

He described the effects of "twilight sleep," which Dr. Samuel P. Holbrook yesterday testified he prescribed for Mrs. Whitmore a week before her death.

Dr. Stick said "twilight sleep" was produced by a drug containing several ingredients, and that it involved complete loss of memory.

He said that from a study of the records of her case, he was covinced Mrs. Whitmore was not of sound mind.

Dr. Holbrook's wife, Louisa, was the principal beneficiary under Mrs. Holbrook's will. The estate is valued at about $75,000. Mrs. Mary Seagrave, a half sister, opposes allowance.

Frederick P. Mann, an undertaker, also testified today.

COPPER WIRE FULL OF CURRENT STOLEN

The Lynn police today were amazed at the effrontery of thieves who stole 3,600 feet of copper wire charged with 2,300 volts of electricity from the poles on the Saugus-Lynnfield boundary line. The wire, which weighed about 2,900 pounds and is worth 30 cents a pound as junk, was strung on twelve poles along the boundary line and furnished power for the Montrose Pumping Station.

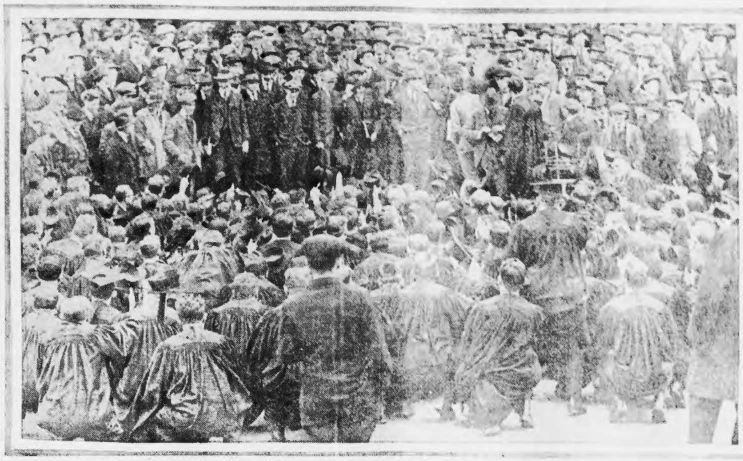
Seniors of Harvard Go Down on Their Knees to Extract Money from 'Tightwad' Freshmen



This photograph shows what no one has ever seen before—what no one may ever see again—a body of dignified graduates-to-be at Harvard abasing themselves in the dust before the freshmen, whose contribution to the expenses of the senior outing fell so far short of what was desired that when all pleas had failed the upper classmen refused to allow the youngsters to have their pictures taken, and then and there conferred upon them the dishonorary degree of "T. W."—Tightwads.—Photograph by Harvard Illustrated.

For once in Harvard College history the haughty seniors have knelt to the humble freshmen.

There was a powerful reason. The seniors desired the "freshies" to help finance the annual senior picnic. There is a Harvard tradition—strongly indorsed by the seniors—that the freshmen shall bear the expense of this outing.

The freshmen are not on record as being over-enthusiastic on this point.

But the seniors went ahead with their traditional plan to hold up the tender "freshies" for all possible. The time elected for the assessment was the seniors and freshmen photograph day. Both classes gathered in front of the Widener Memorial Library. The 650 "freshies" posed on the library steps. Then came the senior appeal for funds.

The "freshies" did not contribute, so the seniors thought, with that unmeasured generosity which the glorious occasion demanded. The seniors remarked to that effect. The "freshies" continued prudent. The seniors implored. Finally the seniors knelt in record-breaking plea for more money.

No more being forthcoming the seniors arose and virtuously denounced the freshmen as "tightwads" and conferred upon the oblivious ones the low degree of "T. W."

Further to show their disapproval the seniors refused to let the "freshies" be photographed as a class.

Troubetzkoy Sends Charlotte Russes to Dogs

By International News Service.

New York, April 13.—The Prince and Princess Paul Troubetzkoy arrived at the Hotel Majestic from Washington, bringing with them two Siberian bloodhounds. The dogs were quartered in a special kennel in the basement.

After the Prince and Princess had partaken of breakfast in their rooms the Troubetzkoy valet called up the dining room and ordered two dozen charlotte russes.

"Shall we serve them in the rooms?" asked the head waiter. "Oh, my, no," came back the valet's answer, "take them to the bloodhounds in the basement. They always have a dozen apiece every day."

The Prince's order was carried out.

School Girls Serve Breakfast at 12-Cent Cost

Nashua, N. H., April 13.—Pupils of the high school cooking class have just given the teachers at the school one of the best breakfasts they ever had.

The meal included half a grapefruit each, cereal with cream and plenty of it, eggs, bacon, French fried potatoes, coffee, with hot muffins. The cost for the whole breakfast for four was 48 cents. The pupils were given 50 cents for the meal and saved two cents from it. The teachers entertained were Misses Helen Coffey, Grace Campbell, Helen W. Stevens and Lena Power.

The breakfast was an experiment under the direction of the cooking teacher, Miss Mary L. H. Pillsbury, and will be tried again. It was so successful.

MRS. WHEELER CONTINUES CLUB SIEGE

By International News Service.

New York, April 13.—Behind the portcullis of the Union League Club of Fifth Avenue, Albert Gallatin Wheeler, Jr., continued to defy the minions of the law, and his wife, the former Boston "Girl in red tights." Efforts to serve him with an order of arrest, issued by Justice Greenbaum, were fruitless.

His wife, Claudia Carlstedt Wheeler, is trying to get him to pay back alimony and to put up a bond that he will pay future alimony promptly. She did not resume in person the siege in which she led a assault, but [illegible] band, consisting of an attorney and a stout retainer from the sheriff's office against the ramparts of the Union League Club only to be ejected. The trusty henchman, with the order of arrest, was posted outside of the club to remain all night on watch.

Mrs. Wheeler, bowing to superior numbers, but not in the least daunted, returned to West 134th street, where she is living.

She consulted with her attorneys. Then she announced that the siege of the Union League Club will not be lifted until her husband consents to put up the back alimony of $3,600, which she says is due her.

"My husband thinks he can starve me out. He is mistaken. I will not compromise. I have been treated like a dog. He asserts that he cannot pay the money. I don't believe him. The Union League Club will be watched, and the minute he steps out of it he will be served with an order of arrest. He can't be served in the club because it is a civil suit," Mrs. Wheeler said.

At the Union League Club, it was said that Mr. Wheeler, who is a stock broker and son of a Chicago millionaire, was not in. The watcher said he didn't know if Mr. Wheeler was still in the club but he "guessed [illegible] still around, anyhow."

SUES MARSTERS ON CONTRACT OF TOUR

Suit for $1,000 against the George E. Marsters, Inc., has been entered in the Superior Court by Miss Flora T. Currier of Boston, for alleged breach of contract in failing to carry out the stipulations on a tour of Europe. Mrs. Currier claims she was forced to use her own money to return home after she had paid $1,700 for the expenses of herself and daughter. The contract was made, she says, in the spring of 1914, at about the time of the start of the war.

Mrs. Currier and her daughter were taken to Europe and all expenses, except hotel accommodations in Naples, were paid until they reached Paris, August 1, 1914. Then she claims the company refused to pay the expenses for the completion of the tour or to take them home.

SUSPEND CHELSEA PUPIL

Max Gerstein, a junior in the Chelsea High School, a quarterback on the school football team, and one of those pupils suspended for "hooking jack" to see the "movies," is under suspension again today, this time for an indefinite period.

The suspension was the result of an actual encounter in the basement of the school between Gerstein and one of the schoolmasters, Clifford Miller, instructor in chemistry. The exhibition was enjoyed by twenty-five or more of the pupils.

CLAIMS KNOCKOUT THREAT.

Young Gerstein declares today that since the truancy exploit every teacher has hounded him, and that one even threatened him with bodily injury, explaining how easy it would be to put him out, and showing his muscle to back up the boast.

According to Gerstein, he was approached by the instructor in so rough a manner that he feared the very injury with which he had been threatened. Gerstein declares that he had only one course to follow to avoid being "put out," and that was to clinch. This, he says, he did.

JOLT TO THE WIND.

They clung to one another, he maintains, until finally the teacher broke away. Then, Gerstein declares, the teacher deliberately swung at him with his right. Again, Gerstein explained, he could do only one thing, that was to counter. And he countered, driving so stiff a jolt into the teacher's wind that there was no further danger of a knockout, as far as the pupil was concerned.

Young Gerstein's own story is as follows:

I was one of those who went to the theatre party in Boston, March 9, when we were supposed to be in school. At that time we were brought back by Truant Officer Patrick J. Gaffney and suspended. I was out of school about two weeks before I was reinstated.

"TEACHERS HOUNDED ME."

All this year the teachers have been hounding me. I have missed a number of days on account of rheumatism. They told me I was one of the clique they were trying to break up. It was only Monday that one of the teachers showed me his arm and muscle and told me how easy it would be to put me out. I told him he had better not try. My chums in school have told me to watch out, as I have a number of persons outside the school.

I was very much surprised when Mr. Miller came at me to wrest the towel from my hands. Then when he grabbed me and clinched and made a punch at me, it was all off. I just had to swing for his stomach. I was so excited that I did not know anyone was present. I had my glasses on at the time he grabbed me, and, besides, my legs were all bandaged. I can't get any satisfaction out of Mr. Gammons, so I intend to fight this case to a finish.

New York, April 13.—Pearls of eloquence—in addition to the more sparkling gems which have given him his sobriquet of "Diamond Jim"—are going to be displayed next Monday night by James Buchanan Brady at the annual dinner of the Society of Restaurateurs at Terrace Garden.

Mr. Brady, who has probably attended more banquets than any three men in New York (outside of professional waiters), has hitherto said less than any one except the chairman of the deaf and dumb association's feed. However, the restaurateurs have inveigled him into responding to the toast, "The Restaurants of New York."

BOTTLE INJURES AN ARREST SPECTATOR

William Linsky, twenty-five, of D street, South Boston, was struck on the head by a milk bottle while standing in front of a house on D street, South Boston. At the City Hospital it was said that he has a bad scalp wound. Linsky was watching the arrest of a man across the street from where he was standing at the time. At the same time a resident of an upper flat raised a window, accidentally dislodging a milk bottle from the window sill.

GARMONG SUIT TO JUDGES

Bangor, Me., April 13.—The hundreds of [illegible] who had been [illegible] would [illegible] H. Henderson [illegible] "the baby's case" is most of [illegible] studied [illegible] today, and the more [illegible] studied it the less they [illegible].

Twenty-four hours after the completion of the second Penobscot county jury trial of Garmong vs. Henderson the case stands like this: A jury has decided that "if" Miss Garmong "gets anything," she should have [illegible], but whether she is entitled to anything or nothing is to be determined by the law term, or full bench of the Supreme Judicial Court of the State of Maine.

MAY REDUCE VERDICT.

That court, moreover, is to reduce the [illegible] verdict at its pleasure. It may give the lady $15,000, $10,000, $5,000 [illegible] any other sum. Or it may find John H. Henderson not [illegible] as charged and give Miss [illegible] nothing.

The decision may have been just a [illegible] in Bird's method of letting Creed M. Fulton down easy. The Washington, D. C., attorney, on the Garmong end, an eloquent Virginian, is a mighty popular gentleman, sir, up here in [illegible] Yankee land, and Bangor was glad to see him save his face, however shadowy, uncertain, mythical or Mexican the [illegible] awarded to his client.

Via the grapevine wireless comes the information that Justice Bird was prepared to grant the motion of L. B. Deasy of Bar Harbor and instruct the jury to return a verdict for Henderson. His Honor is said to have made the suggestion, however, that by agreement of counsel the jury might be permitted to "assume" Mr. Henderson guilty as alleged and his guilt assumed, to pass upon the question of the sum to which Miss Garmong in their opinion was entitled, if anything.

ONE PICTURE OF PROMISE.

Last Summer's opinion of the law court was written by Chief Justice Savage and today the one ray of light, the one picture of promise, the one straw of hope Squire Fulton's friends and the baby's friends could find in that Savage opinion was this reference to Henderson:

"On the other hand it must be said with equal plainness the jury were undoubtedly warranted in believing either that the defendant was in reality the father of the plaintiff's child, or that he had reason to believe that he was, and that he [illegible] when he testified [illegible] he never had had illicit relations with her.

Although neither party swears it, the greatly preponderating effect of the evidence, weighed in the light of their conduct, would warrant a finding that they were unduly intimate from nearly the beginning of their acquaintance, and of this it is [illegible] that the jury took full account."

Outside of that paragraph, lambasting both Henderson and the lady, the law court's opinion was that there wasn't breath of promise enough in this case to fill a [illegible] or a [illegible] pail.

GERMAN ASSAULT NORTHWEST OF VERDUN CHECKED BY FRENCH

By International News Service.

London, April 13.—Another attempt by the Germans to assault the French positions on Hill 304, northwest of Verdun, on Wednesday, was prevented by the French artillery, it was announced today by the War Office.

After a violent bombardment of the hill the Germans prepared to throw heavy masses of men forward, but the curtains of fire from the French guns kept them from carrying out the enterprise.

The night was generally quiet on the Verdun front, the communique stated.

The intensity of the German artillery fire against the French key position on Hill 304 has indicated that the Germans would make their next powerful infantry assault against that section of the line and the French artillery was prepared to meet it. As the German fire slackened hundreds of French guns began raining shells in "curtains" in front of the German trenches.

TROOPS WIPED OUT.

The German troops that tried to penetrate the [illegible] were wiped out by the deadly fire.

The German general staff is again moving reinforcements to the Verdun front. It is supposed by military critics that these troops were originally intended for the east front. However, bad roads and floods in Russia have compelled the Russians to lessen their activity, with the result that the soldiers could be sent to the west front.

The severe artillery fire northwest of Verdun has smashed some of the dikes along the west bank of the Meuse. The stream, already at flood from rain and melting snow, has overflowed a considerable portion of the low lands around Cumieres. Many German wounded were drowned in the inundation.

VIGOROUS CANNONADE.

Northeast of Verdun the Germans have carried out vigorous cannonades against the French positions and the roads in the rear of the French lines.

The text of the official French communique follows:

"The night was quiet throughout the entire region of Verdun.

"A German attack, which had been prepared for yesterday afternoon against our positions on Hill No. 304 was not able to come from the enemy's trenches. The curtains of fire from our artillery and the bombardment directed by our batteries in the neighboring sectors upon enemy columns concentrating in Malancourt wood appeared to have made the operation abortive.

"No important event occurred on the entire front."

Following is the text of today's German War Office report:

"West front: Weather conditions hindered fighting the greater part of yesterday, but on the Meuse, in the Woevre plain and southeast of Verdun there were artillery actions.

"Southeast of Albert in an engagement between patrols we captured [illegible] English prisoners.

"A French gas attack at [illegible], northeast of Compiegne, proved ineffective.

"East front: South of Narocz Lake the action of the artillery increased in violence. East of Baranovitch an attack by the Russians was repulsed and the enemy was driven back."

Germans 'Ready to Hew Road to Paris'

Special to International News Service and London Daily Telegraph.

Rotterdam, April 13.—Ignoring the fact that the French voluntarily evacuated Bethincourt as a useless salient, German war correspondents describe at great length the "capture" of the village.

There is also renewed talk by German critics of hewing the "road to Paris." They claim their troops are slowly but surely approaching the Paris-Verdun road and are placing great hopes that the French communications at Verdun will be cut.

They omit to mention that as these routes have long been under fire by the German guns, the French, with many other means of communication, have done quite well without them.

German newspapers, with the aim of calming the alarm at the enormous losses at Verdun, also are laying emphasis on the claim that the results are achieved mainly by the work of the artillery. A staff officer from the Verdun front writes to the Berliner Tageblatt:

"Unprepared infantry attacks are only possible with the very heaviest of losses, but the artillery is first made to do its work and the subsequent fighting is simply a matter of plucking the ripe fruits of this work.

Each time the infantry attacks are carried out with comparatively small sacrifices, owing to the thorough artillery preparation. It has been proved, contrary to former experience, that it is the defenders who have to bear the great losses."

WAR SUMMARY

The German attacks against Hill 304, key to the northwest defences of Verdun, were resumed today according to Paris dispatches; but the French held their lines.

Terrific bombardment of the whole salient of which Hill 304 and Dead Man's Hill form the backbone has been the rule for almost two weeks now, and constant labor by the French is necessary to keep their trenches and defensive works in condition to meet an attack.

The Verdun assaults were the only vigorous movements on the whole western front, the remainder of the line being generally quiet.

The submarine question assumed a more serious phase today. The German note on the Sussex is regarded in Washington as a practical admission that the vessel was torpedoed; and it certainly is an admission that a vessel was torpedoed and without warning—which in itself would constitute an offence against President Wilson's attitude on the rules that should govern submarine warfare.

On the Italian front, scattered fighting of inconsiderable proportions resulted in gains equally shared between the two combatants.

The Russian front was quiet, but in the Caucasus the Russians are still "gaining." The Russians continue silent as to their gradual occupation of Persia. That occupation will make trouble when it comes time for peace negotiations.

The allies have officially notified Holland they have no designs on her neutrality. Thus light is shed on the motives that prompted Holland's recent military preparations. Holland has also, by her demonstration, induced Great Britain to release $11,000,000 worth of seized Dutch mail. The United States protests on seized mail continue to draw diplomatic replies.

Holland's fear of an allied invasion to strike Germany in flank is paralleled in the case of Denmark. Denmark's fear of an English landing on her territory prompted her to seek an alliance with Sweden and Norway early in the war, and was a controlling force in bringing about the close Scandinavian union of the last few months.

GERMANS HELD ON ARSON CHARGE

the Hamburg-American line docks in Hoboken. He lives in Glen Ridge, N. Y.

The fourth is Ernest Becker, thirty-two, an electrician, on the interned German liner Friedrich der Grosse lying at Hoboken.

The men are charged with attempted arson. The affidavit filed against them charges them with "acting in concert with each other and others not arrested, in manufacturing fire bombs and placing them in sugar bags on board the steamship Kirkoswald of the Fabre line, now the French line, on or about May 2, 1915."

Two hundred bombs were found by Secret Service operatives in the office of the New Jersey Agricultural Chemical Company in Hoboken.

The arrests are regarded by the police and United States secret service men as the most important since the investigation of German propaganda methods was started.

They were followed almost immediately by full confessions from two of the prisoners, Becker and von Kleist.

The confessions indicated that plans to blow up the allies' ships had been put into operation in other ports than New York. Every suspicious fire on shipboard for allied ports is now regarded as having been instigated by men who worked in connection with those involved in the confessions obtained.

Becker has admitted that he made the outer shells on board the steamship Friedrich der Grosse.

On June 8, last, the Kirkoswald arrived at Marseilles, France. Suspicious fires had been discovered in the hold of the ship. A mysterious looking bomb was found. This was shipped to the State Department in Washington and in turn forwarded to the New York police. It was cylindrical, about six inches long and made almost entirely of lead. At one end was an aluminum cap soldered to the main portion of the bomb. It contained a chemical which was supposed to eat through the aluminum within a period of two days and set fire to the powder and other compounds that filled the rest of the cylinder.

$10,000 PAID CHEMIST.

At the other end was a sort of screw cork so arranged that when the explosion occurred it was not accompanied by a loud report or any concussion. The bomb was manufactured so that it would be entirely consumed, even the most trifling fire leaving no evidence.

The local police and the government operatives could find no clew to the makers of the bomb.

For months they were completely in the dark. But a chance remark of Lieutenant Robert Fay, on October 15, in which he made the statement that "the bombs should have been more effective" gave them the desired lead.

Fay was questioned for days. He finally admitted that many of these bombs had been placed on ships, but did not explode. He said that about $10,000 was paid to a chemist to make them properly. He said they should have been powerful enough to destroy any ship. However, he mentioned no names.

Every German known to the police and under even the slightest suspicion was placed under surveillance. In all between five and six hundred men were trailed. Nothing definite was learned for several weeks. Finally Captain Tunney received information that von Kleist had buried something in the yard back of his home.

This was dug up by detectives and found to be a bomb like that taken from the Kirkoswald.

SAYS BRITISH FLEET IS AT KIRKWALL

New York, April 13.—The whereabouts of the grand home fleet of England was definitely located for the first time, when the Scandinavian-American liner Frederick VIII. arrived here today. Among the passengers on board was H. C. Evans of Des Moines, Iowa, who said that England's fleet, consisting of one hundred warships was lying at Kirkwall, Scotland. Naval officers told Mr. Evans that they expected a combined sea and air attack by Germany which would surpass any single conflict in the world's history.

ATTACK GERMAN COUSINS OF KING

London, April 13.—Swift MacNeill suggested in the House of Commons that an act be passed depriving the "traitor" Dukes of Cumberland and Albany, cousins of King George, who are serving with the German army, of their British peerages. Premier Asquith replied he did not believe the time of the House would be employed profitably with such legislation, as the dukes had already been expelled from the Order of the Garter.

FRANCE PLANS TO FIX FOOD PRICES

Paris, April 13.—The French Senate has adopted the principle of fixing by degrees the maximum selling prices of necessaries of life. The government proposes to fix the prices of the following articles:

Bread, meat, milk, butter, imitation butter, eggs, lard, potatoes, sugar, cheese, green vegetables, wine, cider, table beer, fertilizers, petroleum and alcohol for burning purposes.

AMERICANS TO AID FRENCH INDUSTRY

Washington, April 13.—French industries, crippled or destroyed by war, are to be rebuilt in part through the medium of American business genius and capital. The French government has given approval to a suggestion for an early visit to France of an American industrial commission to accomplish the ends mapped out. The commission will include manufacturers, bankers, architects, contractors and importers.

AMERICAN YACHTS BRITISH WARSHIPS

Newport, April 13.—Captain J. S. Patterson has returned from Halifax, where he has been for two years in connection with the purchase of numerous steam yachts for patrol service by the Canadian government.

Many well-known steam yachts which have not been seen about these waters for the past year or so are now warships in the Canadian and British navies.

The steam yacht Tarantula, formerly the property of W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., which was sold to J. K. L. Ross of Montreal, is a torpedo boat and called the Tuna. It is fitted with torpedo tubes, a three-pounder rifle and is doing patrol duty off Halifax. She sailed from Boston August 23, 1914.

The steam yacht Winchester, another fast craft, formerly owned by Mr. Rouss of New York, is now the Grilse. It was on patrol duty off the St. Lawrence River up to last December, when she was sent to Bermuda for patrol service with her purchaser, Lieutenant J. K. L. Ross of the Canadian Navy, as commander. She is fitted as a destroyer, with torpedo tubes and two twelve-pound rifles.

The steam yacht Columbia, owned by Mr. Ladew of New York, was purchased by the Canadian government and, as a destroyer, is now called the Stadacona.

The steam yacht Waturus, formerly owned by C. Morgan of Philadelphia and renamed the Hoshlaga, is also being used as a patrol.

CHANNEL SHIP TORPEDOED NOT LINER, BUT MINE LAYER, SAYS BERLIN IN SUSSEX DENIAL

GERMANY ADMITS SINKING OF THREE SHIPS THAT FLED WHEN ORDERED TO STOP.

Berlin, via London, April 13.—The text of the German note on the sinking of the Sussex and other vessels, dated April 10 and made public today, follows:

The undersigned has the honor to inform Your Excellency Ambassador Gerard, in response to communications of the twenty-ninth and thirtieth ultimo and the third instant regarding the steamships Sussex, Manchester Engineer, Englishman, Berwindvale and Eagle Point, that the mentioned cases, in accordance with our notes of the thirtieth and twenty-first ultimo and the fourth and fifth instant, have been subjected to careful investigation by the Admiral staff of the navy, which has led to the following results:

WARNING DISREGARDED.

1—The English steamer Berwindvale. A steamer which was possibly the Berwindvale was encountered on the evening on March 16 in sight of Bull Rock Light, on the Irish coast, by a German submarine. The steamer as soon as she noticed the submarine, which was running unsubmerged, turned and steamed away. She was ordered to halt by a warning shot. She paid no attention, however, to this warning, but extinguished all lights and attempted to escape. The vessel was then fired upon until halted, and, without further orders, lowered several boats. After the crew entered the boats and received enough time to row away, the ship was sunk.

The name of this steamer was not established. It cannot be stated with assurances, even with the help of the details which were furnished by the American embassy, that the above described incident concerns the steamer Berwindvale. Since, however, the steamer sunk was a tank steamer like the Berwindvale, the identity of the ship may be assumed. In this case, however, the statement made that the Berwindvale was torpedoed without warning would conflict with the facts.

TIME TO LEAVE SHIP.

2—The British steamer Englishman. This steamer, on March 24, was called upon to halt by a German submarine through two warning shots, about twenty miles west of Islay (Hebrides). The vessel proceeded, however, without heeding the warning, and was therefore forced by the submarine artillery fire to halt after an extended chase, whereupon she lowered boats without further orders.

After the German commander had convinced himself that the crew had taken to the boats and rowed from the ship, he sank the steamer.

3—The British steamer Manchester Engineer. It is impossible to establish through the investigation up to the present whether the attack on this steamer, which, according to the given description, occurred on March 27, in the latitude of Waterford, is attributable to a German submarine. The statement regarding the time and place of the incident gives no sufficient basis for investigation. It would, therefore, be desirable to have more exact statements of the place, time and attendant circumstances of the attack reported by the American government in order that the investigation might thereupon be brought to a conclusion.

FLED AFTER WARNING.

4—The British steamer Eagle Point. This steamer in the forenoon of March 28 was called upon to halt by a German submarine through signal and shot about 100—not 130—sea miles from the southwest coast of Ireland, but proceeded. She was thereupon fired upon until halted, and, without further orders, lowered two boats in which the crew took their places. After the commandant convinced himself that the boats, which had hoisted sails, had gotten clear of the steamer, he sank the steamer.

At the time of the sinking a north northwest wind of the strength of two, not "a storm wind," and a light swell, not "a heavy sea" as stated in the given description, prevailed. The boats thereupon had every prospect of being picked up very quickly because the place of the sinking lay on a much-used steamer path.

If the crew of the steamer used only two small boats for saving themselves, the responsibility falls upon themselves, since there were still upon the steamer, as the submarine could establish, at least four big collapsible boats.

WORSHIP ATTACKED.

5—The French steamer Sussex. Ascertainment of the fact, whether the channel steamer Sussex was damaged by a German submarine was rendered extremely difficult because no exact details of time, place and attendant circumstances of the sinking were known, and also because it was impossible to obtain a picture of the ship before April 6. Consequently the investigation had to be extended to all actions undertaken on the day in question, March 24, in the channel, in the general region between Folkstone and Dieppe.

In that region, on March 24, a long black craft, small gray forward works and two high masts, was encountered by a German submarine. The German commander reached the definite conclusion that it was a war vessel and, indeed, a mine layer of the recently built English Arabis class. He was led to that conclusion by the following facts:

First, by the plain unbroken deck of the ship; second, the form of the stern, sloping downward and backward like a war vessel; third, she was painted like a war vessel; fourth, the high speed developed, about eighteen knots; fifth, the circumstances that the vessel did not keep a course northward of the light buoys between Dungeness and Beachy Head, which, according to the frequent and unvarying observations of German submarines, is about the course of commercial vessels, but kept in the middle of the channel, on a course about in the direction of LeHavre.

MUNITIONS ON BOARD.

Consequently, he attacked the vessel at 3:55 in the afternoon, middle European time, 1½ sea miles southeast of Bull Rock (Bullock?) bank, the submarine being submerged. The torpedo struck and caused such a violent explosion in the forward part of the ship that the entire forward part was torn away to the bridge.

The particularly violent explosion warrants the certain conclusion that great amounts of munitions were on board.

The German commander made a sketch of the vessel attacked by him, two drawings of which are inclosed. The picture of the steamer Sussex, two copies of which are also inclosed, is reproduced photographically from the English paper, the Daily Graphic, of the 27th ultimo.

A comparison of the sketch and the picture shows that the craft attacked is not identical with the Sussex; the difference in the position of the stack and shape of the stern is particularly striking.

No other attack whatever by German submarines at the time in question for the Sussex upon the route between Folkstone and Dieppe occurred. The German government must therefore assume that the injury to the Sussex is attributable to another cause than an attack by a German submarine.

EXPLANATION OFFERED.

For an explanation of the case the fact may perhaps be serviceable that no less than twenty-six English mines were exploded by shots by German naval forces in the channel on the 1st and second of April alone. The entire sea in that vicinity is, in fact, endangered by floating mines and by torpedoes that have not sunk. Off the English coast it is further endangered in an increasing degree through German mines which have been laid against enemy naval forces.

Should the American government have at its disposal further material for a conclusion upon the case of the Sussex, the German government would ask that it be communicated in order to subject this material also to an investigation.

In the event that differences of opinion should develop hereby between the two governments, the German government now declares itself ready to have the facts of the case established through mixed commissions of [illegible] accordance with [illegible] The Hague [illegible] settlement [illegible] conflicts [illegible]

The undersigned, while requesting [illegible] communicate the above to the government of [illegible] Ambassador [illegible]

LOBBY IS AFTER SERVICE BOARD

Paid lobbyists of the big public service corporations of the State were reported to have pooled their strength today in the scheme to oust the present Public Service Commission.

The hope of the lobby is said to be:

1—To prevent an investigation of telephone rates.

2—To secure the six-cent fare grab for the Bay State Street Railway.

3—To restore the supervision over the railroad, railway, telephone and telegraph corporations to the hands of a three-headed board.

Governor McCall and those members of the Legislature who are working for economy in the State commissions will be surprised to find the tremendous strength behind their plan to abolish the Public Service Commission.

This strength will come from members of the Legislature who, for reasons best known to themselves, are servile to the corporation influences.

The lobby is chortling with glee at the opportunity thus afforded to oust a board that is regarded as obnoxious to the selfish plans of the big corporations.

DOWN SERVICE BOARD.

Politicians wisely informed in the practices of the lobby, which has returned to Beacon Hill with its old-time audacity, declared today that the Public Service Commission will be wiped out of existence by an overwhelming majority vote in both the House and Senate. The only opposition to this scheme will come, they said, from a few members of the Legislature who are mindful of continuing the railroad reform policy of the State, as expressed in the Washburn bill, under which the present Public Service Commission was organized.

The bill proposing an investigation of the telephone rates and service has been held in the Committee on Mercantile Affairs pending the outcome of the effort to emasculate the Public Service Commission.

When the present board of five members is abolished and the Governor is empowered to appoint a new board of three, the plan is to boldly defeat the telephone inquiry.

The principal plea to be raised at that time will be that a new board of three members will be required to devote itself at first to a study of the railroad and railway situation, and will not have sufficient time to engage in a comprehensive study of the telephone situation.

The telephone corporations are committed, publicly at least, to an investigation. General Manager E. K. Hall said the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company has nothing to fear from an investigation.

But the private and secret policy of the telephone corporation is to prevent an inquiry into its affairs. The reorganization of the Public Service Commission will afford the opportune excuse.

MACLEOD'S POSITION.

Chairman Frederick J. Macleod of the Public Service Commission and Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman declared that public interest demands an investigation be made at once. Such an investigation recently saved the people of New York $3,000,000 in their telephone expenses.

Chairman Macleod declared that the Public Service Commission would not enter into an investigation with the preconceived idea that such a saving would be effected in this State, but he declared that the telephone system has never been subjected to a comprehensive inquiry during its life in the State.

There is constant complaint against service, he declared. There seems to be sufficient reason to investigate the contractural relations between the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company and its parent, the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, and the Western Electric Company.

A preliminary inquiry has developed the fact, he said, that a the major corporation controls both the New England and the Western companies. It is also well known, he said, that the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company is compelled to lease all its instruments from the Western Electric Company. The public interest demands, he asserted, that these relations be exposed to public view.

PRETEXTS MARSHALLED.

The flimsy pretext that the $35,000 as asked by the Public Service Commission will not permit an adequate investigation will be paraded as one of the excuses for defeating the telephone investigation. An equally brazen pretext will be made in the argument that the commissioners advocated the inquiry because they sought to curry public favor when they realized that their commission was about to be abolished.

The Bay State six-cent fare situation will also be made a part and parcel of the scheme to do away with the present commission. The lobbyists and their masters entertain the fear that the Bay State has not made out a case; that there is no evidence to warrant the commission in granting the six-cent fare.

The street railway corporations of the State, which have banded their mutual interests in the six-cent fare propaganda, are said to be eager to try their fate with a commission made up of different members than now constitute the Public Service Commission.

Statistics show that the Bay State is the biggest street railway in the United States. Its six-cent fare plea is one of the most important matters to command the attention of a public service tribunal acting in behalf of the people.

In view of the tremendous importance of the case, the time for final disposition was extended to September 1. It is noteworthy that under the scheme now contemplated at the State House the Public Service Commission will be abolished as soon as the bill passes the Legislature. Eight legislative days would provide ample time for the ousting of this commission.

DILEMMA FOR M'CALL.

Whether or not Governor McCall would consent to the immediate removal of this commission, it is apparent that the situation would be most embarrassing. Any member of the commission who voted against the six-cent fare grab could rest assured that he would be reappointed to the new board only against the combined and powerful opposition of the greatest financial interests of the State.

Governor McCall would find that in this matter of appointments the men he selected would have to meet the indorsement of the executive council, which has never been celebrated for liberal or progressive views.

But the great, big outstanding fact that satisfies the bold lobbyists is that complete domination over the railroad and railway situation is to be vested in two men. It is a matter of arithmetical calculation, as well as a matter of practical political knowledge, that two men can always outvote the third member of a commission.

That fact was sadly apparent in the days of the old railroad commission, when the over-capitalization, stock watering and unjustifiable mergers that eventually led to the disruption of New England's greatest railroads were rubber-stamped by men who drew their salaries from the State, but who, if they are to be judged by their acts, were influenced only by the corporations.

The handful of legislators at the State House who are concerned only in the service they can render the public were further disturbed today by the prediction that the reorganization of the Boston & Maine Railroad, with its possible absorption of the graft-ridden Hampden Railroad, and the divorce of the New Haven from its trolley holdings and other ventures might be accomplished under the jurisdiction of a three-headed commission, to be composed of gentlemen as yet unknown.

SINGER BRIDE IN SOMERVILLE WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Eva M. Skinner, for the past thirteen years one of the soprano soloists of the Handel and Haydn Society, and Henry James Allen of Dorchester, took place at 8 o'clock last evening at the home of the bride, No. 225 Summer street, Somerville.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. George S. Johnson of Lewiston, Me., and the couple were married under a floral arch by Rev. D. Stewart Smith, of Lynn. The bride wore a white lace gown and carried bride roses; the veil was caught up with a cluster of forget-me-nots. The maid of honor, Miss Alice C. Jones of Lewiston, Me., was in pale blue crepe de chine and carried Killarney roses. Albert Young of Boston was best man. A reception attended by relatives and intimate friends followed. The ushers were Fred H. Cobb of Watertown and John Lawson of Arlington. The bride received many gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Allen will live at No. 225 Summer street, Somerville.

The bride is the daughter of the late Phineas W. and Mary A. C. Skinner.

YOUNG WIDOW TAKES VOW TO KILL VILLA

General Pershing's Camp at the Front, April 11 (via aeroplane to Columbus, N. M., April 13).—Two widows of Carranza officers slain by Villa near here passed through camp today en route to Chihuahua City. One was Senora Innocente Riviera, sixteen, and the other Senora Thomas Milan, twenty.

"I wish to kill Villa myself," said Senora Riviera, "so they are sending me away from this part of the country."

Senora Riviera had been married three months when her husband was killed by some of Villa's forces at Guerrero on March 28. The sixteen-year-old bride was in Minaca at a dance that night, while her husband, a colonel, was on duty in Guerrero.

Senora Milan was returning from a dance with her husband, a lieutenant-colonel, when some of Villa's men came upon them. Senora Milan was short, her husband tall. A Villa officer levelled his rifle directly over her head, as she sought to protect her husband, and shot him dead.

Hub Millionaire Enjoys 15-Cent Dinner with Help

Binghamton, N. Y., April 13.—Millionaire H. B. Endicott of Boston, in company with 750 laboring men, attired in their greasy working clothes with the tannery and leather odors clinging to them, sat down to a fifteen-cent luncheon at the factory here.

The mammoth Endicott-Johnson shoe plant has established a system for serving hot meals to the working men at 15 cents, the balance of the cost being paid by the firm and amounting to five cents on each meal served.

Messrs. Endicott and Johnson purchased tickets and participated in the rush for the dining tables at the noon hour yesterday to practically test the workings of the scheme.

AUTO KILLS FORMER LOWELL WOMAN

Lowell, April 13.—Mrs. Rebecca E. Warren, former Lowell woman, was killed today in an automobile accident at Redlands, Cal., according to a dispatch received here.

TRENCHES MAKE FIGHTERS KIN, SAYS WOMAN

"The trenches have taught us religious tolerance," Miss Kathleen Burke, great-great-great granddaughter of Edmund Burke, declared in her address today before 150 representative women in the rooms of the Special Aid Society on Boylston street.

"I have heard of a rabbi holding a crucifix before the eyes of a dying French soldier and of a Mohammedan saying over the Lord's Praper to another soldier in the trenches."

Miss Burke told of her work in Serbia and how British women could cook for 500 men at a minute's notice and repair automobiles as well as doing laboratory work in the hospitals.

"I have come over here for help, not for the soldiers, but for the women of France," she continued. "One result of the war will be a greater value placed upon democracy. Rich and poor have suffered the same privations in the trenches."

TWO OPERAS ARE SPLENDIDLY SUNG

By FRED J. McISAAC.

A GLORIOUS PERFORMANCE of Verdi's time-honored opera, "Rigoletto," was given at the Opera House yesterday afternoon before an audience that filled the big theatre completely.

In the first place there was a Rigoletto who realized all the requirements of voice and action for this most difficult of all baritone roles—De Luca. Then Caruso, as the Duke, sang with all the ease and grace and lyric elegance which won him his marvelous reputation years ago. It was a great afternoon for Caruso, and a splendid exhibition of art on the part of this dramatic tenor in a lyric role.

DeLUCA GLORIOUS IN RIGOLETTO ROLE

Barrientos, the Spanish coloratura soprano, gave a very satisfactory performance of Gilda. Polacco was so fired by the superb singing of soloists and chorus that he conducted a performance, which for dramatic vehemence carried you right back to the halcyon days of Victor Maurel as Rigoletto.

De Luca is unquestionably one of the finest baritones who has come to America in years. The owner of a glorious voice, perfect from top to bottom, he sings with admirable taste all the time. He never finds it necessary to bellow or roar the music of Rigoletto like so many others we have seen in the part. Then again he is a fine actor. He gives us the mean, slinking jester with his one treasure, Gilda, rising to great heights in his passion for revenge against the betrayer of his daughter. The third act, with its big duet at the end, was very thrilling in his hands.

BARRIENTOS' VOICE IS DRAMATICALLY LACKING

Barrientos as Gilda is not as fortunate as in "Lucia." This role calls for considerable dramatic power, and her voice lacks it completely. She is a very expert singer, but her voice is very thin and small and will not permit of expansion. And against the orchestra by the fiery Polacco, she was frequently unable to make any headway.

Caruso must emit big tone even when singing a lyric role. De Luca's baritone is grand. Perini, the Maddalena of yesterday, possesses full, rich contralto tones, and the quartet lost much of its effectiveness by the inability of Barrientos to match these three voices.

It was a thoroughly stirring performance, a memorable one. The soprano and baritone duet that ends the opera, but which is ordinarily cut, was restored. It is charming music, but it mars the dramatic ending.

"TROVATORE" DRAWS CAPACITY AUDIENCE

Last evening "Trovatore" was the bill, and this noble old melody chariot drew out another big house. The cast included Rappold, Homer, Amato and Martinelli.

"Trovatore," like "Rigoletto," is the product of Verdi's youth when his brain teemed with the richest melodies, and when the requirements for opera were so simple that he could turn one out every few months.

"Trovatore" has been the most popular of all the Verdi operas because of the hurdy-gurdy character of its tunes. The Miserere, the Anvil Chorus, the marches, and the ballads have hit the populace of all nations right between the eyes. But the familiarity of everybody with the melodies makes it necessary for great singers to sing them. Poor voices are pitifully shown up in "Il Trovatore."

HOMER SINGS A FINE AZUCENA

The cast last night was admirably adapted to the character of the music. Rappold's big voice suits the airs of Leonora, save that it is not sufficiently flexible for the florid song of the first act. Homer is a stunning Azucena, and Martinelli a very romantic and thrilling Manrico. Amato was in better voice last night than at any time during the Metropolitan engagement. It was a very satisfactory performance.

CURED HIMSELF OF DRINKING

Los Angeles Man Gives Out a Simple Home Recipe That Banished His Desire for Liquor.

Mr. Carl Smith, living at 615½ S. Grand Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif., cured himself of the liquor habit with a simple home recipe. In a recent statement Mr. Smith said: "I took two high priced treatments for the liquor habit, both of which failed. Then I heard of the following simple recipe, which I tried. It quickly banished my desire for liquor and greatly benefited my health. To 3 oz. of water add 20 grains of muriate of ammonia, a small box of Varlex Compound and 10 grains of pepsin. Take a teaspoonful three times a day. It is perfectly harmless, and as it has no taste, color or smell it can be given secretly in coffee, tea, milk, or in food. Any druggist can put up this recipe at very little cost, and it is a wonderful remedy."

$10,000 PROMISE SUIT TO BE SETTLED

Rutland, Vt., April 13.—A settlement has been reached out of court in the $10,000 breach of promise suit of Miss Myrtle P. Webb of Portland, Me., against William E. Carter of Pittsford, who operates a hotel at Rye Beach, N. H.

The amount paid by the defendant was not made public.

Mr. Carter's stock farm in Pittsford was attached in behalf of Miss Webb, following the bringing of the suit.

Mr. Carter, who is the manager of the Hotel Farragut at Rye Beach, is well known throughout New England. He was formerly president of the Vermont Dairymen's Association and president of the Rutland County Agricultural society. He is now a vice-president of the latter organization and a member of the Rutland Country Club and Rutland Lodge of Elks.

Miss Webb was employed by Mr. Carter as private secretary at the hotel in Rye Beach. She claimed he promised to marry her in Boston in 1911 and that he continued to say he intended to marry her, but that on December 15, 1915, he refused to have the ceremony performed.

MISS TERRY TO WED, IS REPORT

New York, April 13.—Friends of Miss Phyllis Neilson-Terry insist that she is soon to wed Cecil King, an English actor. Miss Terry, who is playing in "The Great Pursuit" at the Shubert Theatre, refused to confirm or deny the report.

There has been a friendship between Miss Terry and Mr. King ever since they played in the same company in London four years ago. Miss Terry is a niece of Ellen Terry and made her debut on the stage in 1909. She came to this country in 1914 to play in "Twelfth Night" and has appeared in several productions here since.

Mr. King for a number of years has been general stage director for Sir Herbert Tree at His Majesty's Theatre, London.

THIEVES STRIP LEAD FROM WHOLE ROOF

Lewiston, Me., April 13.—When the rain of this week startled inmates of the Journal building, Lisbon street, by letting a flood down through the roof, investigation showed that junk thieves had visited the roof and stripped it of the lead used to fill crevices and along the cornice. The thieves made use of the fire escape, and it is believed they worked during the daytime. The lead taken is estimated to be worth about $100, while the cost of replacing it will be about $200.

42 DANISH SHIPS LOST DURING WAR

'Wake Up, America,' Wakes Up Boston

CHORUS
Wake up, A-mer-i-ca, we are called to war. Are we prepared to give our lives For our sweet-hearts and our wives? Are our mothers and our homes worth fighting for? Let us pray, that, for peace, but peace with honor, But let's get ready to answer duty's call. So when Old Glory stands unfurled, Let it mean to all the world, America ready, that's all.

"Wake Up, America," the great preparedness song, is being sung everywhere. Out at the Franklin Park Theatre it is making a tremendous hit. It is being sung at this theatre by Frank Corbett (at left) and (at right) Sam Shepard and Walter Donovan.

FAMOUS BLIND PRINTER DEAD

Dennis A. Reardon, for sixty years an inmate of the Perkins Institution for the Blind and long its superintendent of printing, is dead at his home, Riverside street, Watertown.

Death followed a paralytic shock Sunday. He was sixty-nine years, eleven months old. Born in Ireland, he was brought to this country in childhood, and admitted to the institution sixty years ago from Quincy.

Frank Corbett, Sam Shepard and Walter Donovan, three clever boys who are at the Franklin Park this week, are certainly waking up Boston, and thus doing their part in "Waking Up America." They are singing the patriotic song which is doing so much for preparedness, and which is spreading through the country like wild-fire, "Wake Up, America." The Franklin Park is the most attractive of any suburban theatres, and can always be depended upon to put up a good article of vaudeville and pictures. Corbett, Shepard and Donovan have a lot of good stuff and get it over in great shape.

ASSURANCES GIVEN TO DUTCH BY FRENCH

The Hague, April 13 (via London).—The French Minister to Holland has given the assurance that neither France nor her allies ever contemplated, directly or indirectly, attacking the neutrality of Holland or the inviolability of its territory, says a communication issued by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. The assurance adds that the recent conference of the allies in Paris did not occupy itself with Holland at all.

NEWBURYPORT MAN TAKES POISON

Newburyport, April 12.—Walter H. Howe, fifty-six, of Lime street, committed suicide by taking cyanide of potassium, according to a statement made by Medical Examiner [illegible].

Despondency, due, it is believed, to his belief that he had an incurable internal malady, is thought to have been the cause.

Howe had been treated by the family physician, who refused to diagnose his case and directed his removal to the Anna Jaques Hospital. The man died as he was about to be removed to that institution.

Howe is survived by a wife and two children.

25,000 TEXTILE WORKERS ASK INCREASE

Fall River, April 12.—The Textile Council has received unanimous authority from its constituent unions to demand for the 25,000 textile operatives in this city an advance in wages of not less than 10 per cent. The slashers, carders, spinners and weavers, at their regular meeting, voted to have the council take such action.

A similar vote was passed by the Loomfixers' Union last week. The council will meet Monday night to formulate the demands, which will be presented to the Manufacturers' Association a day or two later.

Cascarets are a treat! They liven your liver, clean your thirty feet of bowels and sweeten your stomach. You eat one or two Cascarets like candy before going to bed and in the morning your head is clear, tongue is clean, stomach sweet, breath right, and cold gone and you feel grand.

Stop sick headaches, bilious spells, indigestion, furred tongue, offensive breath and constipation. Mothers should give cross, peevish, feverish, bilious children a whole Cascaret any time.—Advertisement.

STANDARD OIL MAY BE SUED AGAIN BY U. S. GOVERNMENT

Washington, April 13.—Attorney-General Gregory today declined to furnish Congress with information he has concerning operations of the Standard Oil Company, which was called for by the Kenyon resolution.

The Attorney-General's office announced that a formal declination to make public that information would be sent to Congress on the ground that it was incompatible with the public interests.

Officials of the Department of Justice stated this afternoon that the government is contemplating bringing another suit against the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, charging that the corporation still exists as a "trust." It was intimated that evidence has been obtained that the company in reality never did divorce its subsidiary companies as ordered by the Supreme Court dissolution decree. The various companies are declared to be working together to control prices of oil and oil products.

Most of the department's information has been gained through a lengthy investigation by Charles B. Morrison of Chicago.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for 50 cents a large bottle, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

PASTORS FIGHT MAYOR'S STAND IN HAVERHILL

Haverhill, April 13.—"Your reply is not satisfactory."

This was the curt note received by Mayor Bartlett today, signed by Rev. Henry A. Arnold, secretary of the Haverhill Ministers' Association.

It was inspired by a letter written to the association Tuesday by the Mayor, in which he replied to questions regarding the recent riot when Thomas E. Layden of Somerville was prevented from speaking.

The ministers asked Mayor Bartlett what action he would take regarding the riot, whether or not he would protect Layden if he again attempted to speak, and if he would grant him a license to speak in City Hall.

The Mayor in replying said the matter of protection was up to Commissioner of Public Safety Hoyt, but as far as Layden was concerned he suggested that the ministers co-operate with the Mayor and prevent the public from being further stirred up.

This newspaper became greatly interested in the "Baby Week" instituted by the National Child Welfare department.

It is true that no kind of competition will create greater interest in babyhood than an effort to find where are the most perfect babies of a community.

While mothers are entering the contest, they are at the same time finding out all they possibly can about how to put their babies in first-class condition. They study baby food, baby habits and baby clothing. They read books on health, about teething, fresh air, exercise, etc. They make sure the milk for the baby is of the right kind and they consult nurses and physicians as to the best way to keep the baby from sickness.

AIM AT BABY EFFICIENCY.

A mother who works for the first prize lets no piece of information concerning perfect babies pass her.

We believe baby competitions, properly run, should do much toward raising the standard of babyhood, and go a long way toward starting many future citizens on their life's journey physically well equipped.

Baby efficiency is the goal aimed at and the baby contest should develop a community of mothers able to raise the finest citizens to be imagined.

Fine, healthy babies, pictured and written about, inspire mothers to greater efforts to make their children equally robust and beautiful.

OPENS BABY DEPARTMENT.

Already the AMERICAN "Best Baby" contest has influenced the Sunday editor to open a baby department, giving all kinds of information about bringing up perfect babies. In this department may be read articles on teething, food, clothes, etc., by Dr. Mary T. Moore and other authorities on the raising of infants.

Because of this thorough belief that a baby contest will work for baby welfare in Greater Boston, the AMERICAN offers a splendid list of prizes and medals.

BOSTON MOTHERS, ENTER YOUR BABIES FOR THE BIG PRIZES!

Join the AMERICAN'S great Best Baby Contest.

Your baby should win one of the fifty medals for perfection, or better still, your baby should win the first prize for the most perfect baby in Greater Boston, a $100 silver cup.

There are ten gold medals for ten extra fine babies.

There are fifteen silver medals for fifteen splendid babies.

And there are twenty-five beautiful bronze medals for twenty-five healthy, strong, intelligent babies who fail to get silver or gold.

Enter your baby now! Delay may be disastrous.

Boston should win the honor of having the finest baby to be found in six great American cities where similar baby contests are now in progress. Six first prize winners from all of these cities will compete with each other for the grand first prize. Mothers of Boston, send in your baby entries and do not let it be said that Boston babies are not as fine as San Francisco or Los Angeles babies, or babies in other cities.

WHY SPRING COLDS ARE DANGEROUS

If Neglected They Lead to Serious, Perhaps Fatal Results

If you get cold at this time of year and try to "let it wear off," it frequently develops into a stubborn throat trouble, which may in turn become chronic asthma, bronchitis or worse. It is important to remember that Father John's Medicine relieves colds because of its nourishing body-building elements, which give strength to the system and enable each organ to resume its normal functions. Father John's Medicine is not a patent medicine, contains no injurious drugs, but is a pure food medicine, for those who are weak and run down.—Advertisement.

RECIPE TO STOP DANDRUFF

This Home Made Mixture Stops Dandruff and Falling Hair and Aids Its Growth.

To a half pint of water add:

Bay Rum .... 1 oz.

Barbo Compound .... A small box

Glycerine .... ¼ oz.

These are all simple ingredients that you can buy from any druggist at very little cost, and mix them yourself. Apply to the scalp once a day for two weeks, then once every other week until all the mixture is used. A half pint should be enough to rid the head of dandruff and kill the dandruff germs. It stops the hair from falling out, and relieves itching and scalp diseases.

Although it is not a dye, it acts upon the hair roots and will darken streaked, faded, gray hair in ten or fifteen days. It promotes the growth of the hair and makes harsh hair soft and glossy.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"I was bothered with a troublesome itching on the back of my ears and on the top of my head, and it was soon followed by a genuine breaking out. The breaking out took the form of blisters spreading until they ran together and made a mass of scales on top of my head, and I constantly felt like scratching. My hair became lifeless and dry, and came out in large handfuls until there was little left.

"I tried many remedies but with no success for the itching kept getting worse until it was impossible to sleep nights. Then I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The itching began to respond almost immediately to the Cuticura treatment, and in a few weeks I was entirely healed." (Signed) H. A. Auty, 814 Plymouth St., Bridgewater, Mass., Oct. 12, 1915.

INTERNATIONAL FILM SECURES HARRY FOX. LEADING COMEDIAN IN "STOP! LOOK! LISTEN!" SHOW

Harry Fox, leading comedian in the "Stop! Look! Listen!" Company at the Colonial Theatre, has become a "movie" star. Which, considering the rapid rise of the popular young actor, is an announcement of more than passing interest.

Harry has just signed a contract with the International Film Service for ten weeks' work next Summer. This is only the beginning of his film career. Harry says the pay envelopes will be fat. He says also that he "broke into the screen game" with the aid of a ladder, a few grimaces and a stumpy boy assistant.

Despite the scant accessories, his "test" reel is a scream. It made even Harry laugh, which is a healthy sign. As a candidate for film fame Harry Fox made a hit with the first bat of his eye. He took to it like a duck takes to water.

TELLS OF HIS "DEBUT."

"It was some debut," said Harry today in a chat with an AMERICAN reporter, during which he told how it occurred. Harry sat in an upholstered chair. He toyed with the fingers of his chamois gloves. He looked positively bashful for an actor. That is, he didn't seem happy under the spell of an interviewer who asked him to talk about himself.

It was difficult to recognize in this solemn, stylishly-dressed youth the capering and versatile "press agent" of the show. Clearly, interviews were new to Harry and not to his liking, for, like most top-notchers, the boy comedian is modest.

And we use "boy" comedian advisedly. Harry Fox is a boy in size and little more than a boy in years. He is twenty-six, and as limber and well set up as a pugilist. His face is his fortune. Not that it is homely. Far from it. It is a round face, and a cheerful, boyish face, and it has expression. That's it—expression.

JUST MAKES YOU LAUGH.

When Harry Fox starts his facial gymnastics he could pull a smile from a dying owl. Those frowns and grins of his have made thousands laugh.

That is the gift above all others best reflected on canvas. Harry Fox has it by instinct. He does not have to grope for it or rehearse it. He does not have to ape anybody. He is successful just because he is Harry Fox with that Harry Fox face.

But let his story be resumed.

As I said before, my breaking into the film game was some debut. Although a new game, I didn't have any stage fright. The thing that struck me as most queer was the absence of an audience. You cut up and snickered and made faces—at a camera churned by a fellow who seemed to be grinding out hand-organ tunes. No music. No footlights. No laughter. Nothing but the grinding of the reel.

SEES HIMSELF IN FILM.

The settings? All I can remember was that ladder. Come to think of it, there was a chestnut tree, or an oak, or a rubber plant in the background. But the big thing was the ladder. It wasn't a sketch or anything I had to study. It was a little ad lib. stuff of my own invention, and I thought a ladder was the best prop.

A kid assistant handled the ladder. Every time he started to place it I would smile and point to another place, and, when I turned my back I called him a name that always made him mad. I did this for the real reel stuff—to put the punch in it, and it did. I think the kid really thought I was guying him, and he got mad, and the madder he got the better I liked it, and my face shows it.

It was nothing but a test film taken in the International Film studio in New York, and Mr. Hearst personally escorted me to the studio to see the run-off.

I waited for that reel like a youngster does the first act in a melodrama. It was strange to see yourself dancing about before your eyes. Uncanny in a way. I had to laugh at myself. Mr. Hearst laughed, too.

It was a 250-foot reel, they told me. I am to play comedy stunts. I am eager to begin. The screen has great possibilities. The crowded movie houses and the stars that are signed up are the best argument. My wife talked the movies to me first. She is one of the Dolly sisters. Then the Hearst people gave me the offer.

ACTS "PRESS-AGENT" ROLE.

What do you think, I haven't got a clipping about myself! Been in the show business fifteen years, and never kept a scrap book. Glad I didn't keep some of them. I was born in California. Been acting since I was a shaver. I was a clown with a circus for a spell. Later I was in burlesque and teamed up with my wife in vaudeville.

In "Stop! Look! Listen!" young Fox plays the role of press agent for Gaby Deslys. He tackles the task of converting Gaby from a struggling chorus girl to a star by means of publicity, and succeeds. Harry Fox is today one of the biggest assets in Charles Dillingham's latest musical production. He is one of the leading comedians of the day. As the manager of the show put it, "Harry Fox is a combination of Peter Daley and William Collier, combining the finesse of Collier with the unctuousness and gripping personality Daley."

"Oh, yes ma'am—we carry SOCONY Kerosene. - - - No, we don't carry old-fashioned kerosene any more—nobody wants it. - - - Yes, there's a difference all right. SOCONY Kerosene is always clean, always reliable, never smokes or crusts the wick. It's the Standard Oil Company of New York's best grade."

"I agree with you. No use in throwing money into the furnace, when SOCONY and a Perfection Heater give such fine heat at such a low cost."

"Yes, surely. This afternoon without fail. - - - Good bye."

SAYS BEAUTY DUE TO GOOD HEALTH

Plant Juice Man at Houghton & Dutton Co.'s Store Makes a True Assertion

"What makes [illegible] new man" was the [illegible] Plant Juice Man [illegible] headquarters at the Drug Department of the Houghton & Dutton Co.'s store. "Health" was the [illegible] reply.

MISS JENNIE MARTIN.

"Health certainly means all in all to women—beauty, success and happiness, everything." Continuing, he said: "The difference between an unhealthy woman and her healthy sister is easily discernible. The one is anaemic, pale, white-lipped, thin-cheeked and [illegible] eyes [illegible] ing figure [illegible] the other is [illegible] full-figured [illegible] bright eyes and a skin like satin. Her lips are ruddy, her movements graceful, and she is full of life and spirits."

Plant Juice has done more to restore the health and strength to Boston women than any other preparation ever [illegible] market and the thousands of beautiful women one sees daily on the streets of Boston have but one agent to thank for their beauty—health.

That this contention is backed up by facts, it is only necessary to read the testimonials of Boston ladies who have been restored to health by Plant Juice. [illegible] statement of Miss Jennie Martin, who resides at [illegible] Avenue, [illegible] well known women of this city and also prominent socially, which says:

"For 13 years I have suffered with my liver, kidneys and a bad case of indigestion. I had headaches, palpitation of the heart, and was so nervous and restless I could not sleep at night. Nothing I ate would agree with me and would ferment in my stomach [illegible] which I suffered intense pain. I finally I had to go to the hospital, where I was told that my only cure was the stomach pump, but this did not relieve me and finally I heard of Plant Juice and got a bottle to try. The first few doses gave me so much relief that now since I have taken it for several weeks I am glad to state that it has completely cured me and I am a well woman today. I have Plant Juice to thank and cannot recommend it too highly."

Plant Juice cleanses, strengthens and revitalizes the whole system. It clears the blood of poisons and impurities, puts the [illegible] to work, regulates the [illegible] kidneys [illegible] digestive organs [illegible] and promotes sound, restful sleep.

The Plant Juice Man is at the Drug Department of the Houghton & Dutton Co.'s store, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

U. S. PROTECTS 24,922,052 CATHOLICS

By International News Service.

New York, April 13.—There are 24,922,052 Catholics under the protection of the flag of the United States. These figures were made public by P. J. Kenedy & Sons, who have published and copyrighted a new official Catholic directory.

According to the directory, [illegible] 169 Catholics live in the United States proper. There are [illegible] in the Philippines and 1,072,45[illegible] in Alaska, the Canal Zone, Guam, American Samoa, Hawaii and Porto Rico.

In the United States proper there is an increase of 254,79[illegible] over the last census. This is not the total increase, for forty-three dioceses and archdioceses failed to take a census in 1915. Only six dioceses report a decrease.

There are 19,573 Catholic clergymen in the country, 10,058 churches of the faith, 5,105 mission churches, eighty-five seminaries, 112 homes for the aged, 210 colleges for boys, [illegible] academies for girls and 5,588 parochial schools. Also there are 283 orphan asylums.

BERLIN SAYS MARYE WAS PRO-RUSSIAN

Berlin, April 13.—Under the headline, "A Model Neutral Ambassador," the Vossische Zeitung prints the following Stockholm dispatch:

Former American Ambassador Marye, whose place in the next few days will be taken by David R. Francis, unbosomed himself to Russian newspapermen, but afterwards appears to have been uneasy at having talked too much, for he requested the Petrograd editorial offices to suppress the interview entirely, or at least to make it quite harmless. Here is one of his statements in the original form:

"As the Ambassador of a neutral power I am not in a position to state these proofs specifically. America hopes and longs for Russia's victory. This thought filled me during my seventeen months of activity in my [illegible] office, and I know that my successor feels the same views."

WILL ASK PROBE OF BACK BAY BLAZE

The score of occupants of six suites above the first floor in the eight-apartment house at No. 24 Belvidere street, Back Bay, was forced to flee to the street by the rear stairway when fire starting in a closet under the front stairs cut off their escape.

The door on the closet which is used by the janitor for the storing of his brushes and brooms was locked, preventing those who discovered the fire from extinguishing it. Acting District Chief Lady will call for an investigation by the state police today.

$20,000,000 PLAN TO LEASE ALL INTERNED GERMAN SHIPS

By International News Service

New York, April 13.—Edward N. Breitung announces today he has completed [illegible] for a $20,000,[illegible] [illegible] to [illegible] the great fleet of [illegible] ships interned here and in other countries. One hundred vessels, he hoped, would be put into [illegible].

"The plan has been submitted to representatives of the [illegible] powers," he said, "and I believe they will consent. [illegible] will be used to carry American goods to South America and Asia."

Inference was made to British and French [illegible] that Mr. Breitung represented Germany in the purchase of the Texas. In reply he said:

"The [illegible] shipment of [illegible] [illegible] was to be [illegible] [illegible] to determine. However, my present plan [illegible] [illegible] [illegible].

"A [illegible] has been formed [illegible] [illegible] enterprise. [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] and the [illegible] trade [illegible] the Great Lakes trade. They have [illegible] to [illegible] in the ocean steamship business.

"We [illegible] German ships that are [illegible] ports [illegible] world. I am [illegible] a hundred. [illegible] operate [illegible] the Atlantic. I want to [illegible] the point that [illegible] first [illegible] American [illegible] neutral.

FREIGHTS ADVANCE.

"There is a tremendous demand for ocean tonnage. Freights have advanced 900 per cent. The opportunities for American capital to realize tremendous profits in the overseas shipping business are constantly increasing. South America and Asia want more and more of our goods because the European countries which used to supply them are overwhelmed in war.

"At present the United States is almost powerless to seize the chance of obtaining this vast trade. Asia has bought $200,000,000 of American goods which cannot be delivered [illegible] of ships. South America could [illegible] [illegible] more of our [illegible] we could only deliver them.

"Unless the American [illegible] laws are amended [illegible] [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible] of other [illegible] [illegible] either the [illegible] or [illegible] colors.

LEASE IS PROPOSED.

"We do not propose [illegible] German or British ships. We [illegible] lease them. To meet the [illegible] of the allies that the rentals of [illegible] ships [illegible] used for war purposes, I [illegible] is imposed. All [illegible] ships will be [illegible] here [illegible] over to the [illegible] months after the end of the war. Unless we [illegible] jeopardize [illegible] of commerce.

"For example, the South American trade [illegible] almost paralyzed, with the result that no meat is coming from Argentina and no [illegible] from other South American ports.

"American railroads have put an embargo on foreign-bound freights because there are not the ships to take it off our piers.

WELL HERES' TO THE RED SOX OSCAR

Shore to Face Mackmen
Sox After Two Straight

By HERMAN NICKERSON.

HAVING made their getaway in the American League race a success, even though it was a win by a nose, the World's Champion Red Sox face the Athletics this afternoon at Fenway Park. The day has a better temperature and with more confidence and less noise and fuss and feathers the boys will get down to business.

Having disposed [illegible] concerts and ragtime singers, the champions will start to deliver the real goods in their plodding path upward toward the pennant.

This is about [illegible] day they have [illegible] Hot Springs [illegible] their [illegible] [illegible]

SCOTT'S FLY HITS

[illegible]

There was nothing remarkable about this contest. The breaks tell the story, that's all. But as the interest was centred in Walker, who played centre for the first time in a Boston uniform in a league game, it must be said that he more than made good. He was warmly received and his fielding was perfect. He gave an exhibition of what he can do in the way of throwing from deep centre to the plate, which won him a round of applause.

ODE TO SPRING

Darlink, you are growing old,
Just as in the days of old;
When the ball team comes to town
You, as usual, fall down.

When the teams are far away
You are always warm and gay;
But when they return, O, f-e-e-e-el
You are cold and bleak to me.

Yes, when they return, O, f-e-e-e-el
You are cold and bleak to me
(Barber shop chords).
Yes, my cyrlink, Bulls f-e-e-e-el
You are always cold to me.

And voices fraught with joy and hope throughout the world would ring,
Were all as optimistic as the baseball scribes in Spring.

SPRING TRAINING

Were I a baseball magnate
Who owned a big league team
I would not send them southward
Where skies are all agleam.

I'd send them up to Greenland,
'Mid ice and snow to roam,
And when the season opened
The men would feel at home.

HAR! HAR! HAR!

In olden days when motor cars whizzed past me on the street,
And made me hop and skip and jump with light and nimble feet,
They ruffled up my temper and they made my bosom sore,
And peevishly I stood upon the nearest curb and swore.

But now they never fret me as they miss me by a yard;
No more I raise my angry voice to cuss them good and hard.
No more my harsh and hectic words re-echo loud and far,
I simply stand upon the curb and chortle, "Har! Har! Har!"

No more my temper gets away, no more I rant and grieve;
I simply watch the speeding car and chuckle up my sleeve.
My startled soul is salved and soothed, my nerves become serene,
Whene'er I pause to think about the price of gasoline.

Rickard Sent a Present
Wenck Tells About It

NEW YORK, April 13. An attempt by Tex Rickard, promoter of the recent Willard-Moran fight, to pay money to the State Boxing Commission, was made known today by Chairman Fred A. Wenck.

"Jack Curley acted as go-between," said Wenck. "He brought $1,500 to me, saying it was a present from Rickard. I sent the money back to Rickard and personally informed him I would have nothing to do with it."

Wenck admitted the Rickard offer [illegible] Madison [illegible] Mr. Wenck [illegible] Sixty-ninth [illegible] Athletic Club [illegible] Show [illegible] Wenck [illegible] we were con[illegible] withheld [illegible] stand by [illegible] [illegible] the recent [illegible] Show Corporation [illegible] by Wenck [illegible] promoter [illegible]

"Well, Rickard did send me some money," said Wenck. "But do you think I would take it? Not me. Rickard should have had more sense. It was a great surprise to me, coming from a man I thought was above all reproach.

"It was $[illegible] [illegible] Jack Curley [illegible] Rickard should have known I [illegible] nothing to do with Curley. I sent the money right back and personally informed Rickard I was doing so."

"Did you consider Rickard's offer in the light of a bribe because of your public office?" Wenck was asked.

"It was a present, nothing more," Wenck replied.

Wenck further refused to reveal what Rickard said when he (Wenck) informed him that the alleged present was being returned. "It happened so long ago," he said, "that I really could not remember all that he said, had to say."

Wenck here was called into an adjoining room by W. F. Mat[illegible], secretary of the commission. There was a whispered conversation. When he returned, Wenck said that he could not discuss the Rickard matter any further.

Jack Curley denied vehemently that he had anything to do with the Rickard offer.

VARSITY BOAT IN FRONT

HARVARD'S varsity eight again showed its stern to the second and third crews yesterday after a fine race over the mile and seven-eighths course along the Charles.

The regulars won, heads up, by three-quarters of a length, the second crew finishing runner-up, a length ahead of the third craft.

The varsity led throughout, and while Crew C did not duplicate its feat of finishing second, as on the previous day, it closed up a gap of two lengths between its shell and Crew B within a quarter of a mile from the finish.

The varsity possessed plenty of drive, spaced well for the rough water it was forced at times to plow through, and, all in all, its showing was pleasing to the coaches. Pope was tried out in the second eight, exchanging his seat in the third crew with Culbert.

Alexander Strong, captain of the 1913 crew, was one of several interested followers of the race who occupied seats in the "John Harvard."

"CHICK" WEST, the Holyoke boxer, a 140-pounder, it would appear, looked mighty good [illegible] his Boston bow at the Hip Tuesday night. In Charley Byers, no [illegible] fair gloveman at best, West [illegible] the South Ender a most artistic [illegible]ing. He worked in clever style and looms up as a juvenile who [illegible] watching.

JUDGING by the bundle of mail reaching the AMERICAN office yesterday, its [illegible] was [illegible] alone in figuring [illegible] Mack had considerable [illegible] on Walter Butler in the [illegible] and was well entitled to Matt [illegible] Flaherty's award.

BUTLER trained entirely too hard for the show. [illegible] he was made if he succeeded in giving Mack a [illegible] all bookings and spent the greater part of three weeks in putting himself into trim.

BUTLER was entirely too finely drawn. Then, he wasn't on the old step, the step that netted him such a big Winter in pugdom, when showing on the average of twice a week. Butler and Mack will doubtless be rematched. Both youths well earned an Arena date by their honest, rugged scrap Tuesday night.

BY the by, Mack not only seemed to have put it over Butler, but as for clean ringwork was entitled to a mark of about 100, whereas truth is Walter was guilty of quite a budget of uncouth work. Be that as it may Walter is almost sure to come through a rollicking riot in the biff world but he wants to cease trying to get down to the near-middleweight limit unless he can do it without weakening himself.

THE assessments for Armory A. A. [illegible] at the Arena will be $[illegible] and $2 for [illegible] $2 and $[illegible] them.

DOPED on what crafty old Matt [illegible] with Charley White of the Hip [illegible] what Eddie Murphy [illegible] Frankie Mack [illegible] with Danny Morgan [illegible] next Tuesday night.

THE Triple A. press agent glibly states "Murphy has been in the background [illegible] and it is a great chance before [illegible] next Tuesday [illegible] meeting [illegible] the other [illegible] the [illegible] that will net him big [illegible]. Well put, brother press agent [illegible] pertinently penned.

JOE CONNOLLY and Tommy McFarland will clash [illegible]. It smacks of a good [illegible] and some fine frolicking.

AL READY, the Chelsea boy, who displayed quite a lot in [illegible] Tommy McFarland at [illegible] at the Hip is most desirous of getting on with either Butler or Mack. Ready has already met Butler [illegible] it was at Beverly where decisions are not rendered. Joe Farren [illegible] Eddie Flynn are [illegible] Ready has met this season. Joe Nelson has started a [illegible] campaign going in Ready's behalf [illegible] confident his charge will deliver [illegible] if afforded the chance.

JOHN HEALY of Manchester, N. H., writes the AMERICAN challenging Al Shubert and "Mickey" Brown on behalf of "Kid" Labore. Gardner Brooks, Joe Morgan, "Kid" Thomas, Tommy Carson and some several dozen others are named by Healy as Labore's victims, though he frankly admits Shubert mussed up his boy. Healy adds he is willing to put [illegible] to $100 with the AMERICAN to go as a weight forfeit at 116 pounds ringside if he can get a raise out of Shubert or Brown.

LEO P. FLYNN has posted $1,000 with E. Curley, the AMERICAN'S New York boxing representative, which Johnny Ertle the St. Paul kewpie, can pocket as soon as he steps through the ropes if he will sign for an encounter with "Battling" Lahn. Leo is confident Lahn is the loudest [illegible] in the bantamweight class. Still, Baltimore advices are to the effect that old "Kid" Williams gave the Battler quite a lamming Tuesday night. Be that as it may, Lahn is a coming champion and is most desirous of getting recognition from Ertle.

EDDIE MACK rises to remark that it looks as if M[illegible] Glover has run out of a return [illegible] with Joe Eagan, his Best Bet.

A MAN and I watched a g[illegible] petting a horse. All [illegible] trig, black, bell-skirted [illegible]bit, she was an aristocratic li[illegible] figure, shiny boots, smooth [illegible] hair, colonial tricolor, and knee-pinching breeches. The horse was almost as shiny in his polished [illegible]ack coat as her boots. He bent a dainty, caressing head to her shoulder. An old man stood, encircled by an arm of the laughing [illegible] a white-haired old man, with a snow-drift mustache and a proud eye. The magic circle of Plenty was drawn around the three.

The man beside [illegible] and ventured gently that [illegible] those two young things [illegible] and the beast, we [illegible] the treasure, [illegible] cared most, guarded most jealously [illegible] in two little words [illegible]ables.

And looking, I remembered. Remembered another old man, some other where with the frost settling in his beard and hair, his little cabin high on the delicately colored mountains, deep, very green with the velvety sage far above the railroad yards in the valley below, remembered him climbing [illegible] up the trail when the [illegible] broke in a great war of [illegible] the snow [illegible] that grey [illegible] lips when we found what [illegible] here with [illegible] eyes [illegible] his valuables—his slim daughter with the old-gold hair and [illegible] little print dress, and the mill[illegible] burro that watched over the corral gate. I remember [illegible] that. For that was when the dove-gray burro, so shaggy and woolly, with his plush ears, and his ardor for chocolate, the slim girl with the burned cheeks, who "kept [illegible] for her father, and the [illegible] with a light in his eye when [illegible] the two waiting high on [illegible] hill, were all "acquaint'" HIS VALUABLES! Between the two of them they were his pearls and diamonds, his heap of glittering gold, his rich ore, his hidden wealth that he feared the [illegible] of—his assets—his valuables. Between the two of them they meant the joy of life, mirth, beauty, homely value, faithfulness, willing service.—NELL BRINKLEY.

Weather by Signs

Experience Shows Old Saws Are Often Right

IN these days of uncertain weather the old signs relied upon by our fathers are worth remembering. Experience has shown them to be fairly reliable, and some of them can be explained on a scientific basis.

[illegible] nights have the heaviest frost.

The [illegible] the clouds the fi[illegible] the weather.

Mopping his steaming brow he exclaimed, "My word, I've never been out so late in my life!"

TODAY'S BEAUTY HELP

You [illegible] at its very best by [illegible] with this simple inexpensive [illegible], which cleanses the hair and [illegible] the roughness of all the dandruff [illegible] and oils [illegible] feeling. Just use a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water, afterwards rinsing [illegible] with clean water. One finds that the hair dries quickly and evenly, is unstreaked, bright, soft and fluffy, so fluffy in fact that it looks more abundant than it is, and so soft that arranging it becomes a pleasure. All scalp irritation will disappear and the hair will be brighter than ever before.—Advertisement.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE MUST HELP HERSELF

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

A very dear friend of mine has come to me for advice. She is eighteen. She boards with her aunt. Now there is a young man also boarding there who is a relative of her [illegible] friend has come to love [illegible] but her father [illegible] him [illegible] only $12 a week and goes out every evening with his friends. For a time my friend has been going out with him secretly. He has told her he loves her, but d[illegible] not act so. [illegible]

AS a general rule, wh[illegible] kind father objects to [illegible] daughter's going about with a [illegible] man there is some [illegible] reason for his attitude. [illegible] right [illegible] and spend [illegible] for [illegible] and her [illegible] to exc[illegible] acter and [illegible] in other p[illegible] no one can help [illegible] we have the strength [illegible] up ourselves, [illegible] your little friend must do.

HE WAS NOT JUSTIFIED

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am [illegible] with whom I have been [illegible] for three years. The firm where I am employed gave a banquet for the employes, a[illegible] invited my fiance to attend with [illegible] but he refused. I said I was going with my brother if he did not go, and he told me to go ahead. I went, and the next morning I received a letter from my friend saying he wanted his ring back, that our engagement was at an end. Was he justified in taking this stand?

ANXIOUS.

YOUR fiance's attitude was tyrannical to say the least. I think you were rather fortunate in escaping marriage with a man who has such a brutally dogmatic attitude. As you state the case it seems as if your fiance arbitrarily refused to accompany you to the banquet at which it was really your place to be present and then without warning used your brother against you. Of course it was not justified. And you are well rid of him.

Why I Never Married

No. 4—The Woman Who Was Too Strictly Chaperoned as a Girl Tells Her Story.

By DOROTHY DIX

"T[illegible] [illegible] girl.

[illegible] well acto[illegible] in [illegible] which marriage [illegible] affair and [illegible] that bar[illegible] by the parents of young maidens.

But in America [illegible] marriage a strictly [illegible] chaperon [illegible] that blights the [illegible] prospects of every girl to whom [illegible] is conscientiously applied.

"In this land of the free we demand free social intercourse between the sexes—freedom for young men and women to get acquainted with each other, freedom [illegible] love-making without [illegible] watchful [illegible] upon it or [illegible] listening ear eavesdropping [illegible]. Put the bars up [illegible] companionship [illegible] young men, and [illegible] every [illegible] chaperon is a [illegible] to [illegible] perfect [illegible] to isolate a girl [illegible] shirt perpetually in the parlor will scare young men away as effectually as a smallpox flag.

"Now when I was a girl I was as attractive as any of my girl friends who married and settled themselves well in life.

"I was no great beauty whose charms were so supernal that they would lead men to take any risk or dare any difficulties to obtain my hand, but I was what you would call a nice girl—pretty, vivacious, [illegible] companionable and [illegible] that [illegible] enjoyment of every-[illegible] to please.

"EVERYTHING IN MY FAVOR"

"Moreover, my people were [illegible] I had lovely [illegible] home. [illegible]

I was never allowed to receive [illegible] from a young man alone. My mother or my father or both [illegible] it their sacred duty to sit up and help me entertain [illegible] the result was a ghastly boredom for all concerned.

"Left alone we two young creatures would have babbled along happily together for hours, and through our inane talk have gotten to really know each other. With [illegible] critic sitting about, making mental note of our foolish and [illegible] remarks, conversation froze [illegible].

"We tried to discuss Shakespeare and the musical glasses, but it was [illegible] failure, and as soon as he could, the unhappy youth fled the place of torment. And I was glad to have him go and end my embarrassment.

"Of course that boy never came back. Neither did any of the others who were put through the same ordeal, and in a little while my parents did not have to help me entertain my callers, because I had none. They had driven them all away.

THE POOR YOUNG MAN

"It was the same way when I was asked to go to a party or the theatre. The poor young man, who could barely, perhaps, afford the price of two tickets to a play, had to buy [illegible] and pay for mamma's supper afterward.

"I think I was asked twice to the theatre before it was rumored about that the young men who took me to places would have my mother thrown in, gratis. That ended that episode. There were no altruistic youths about who wanted to pay out their good money for the presence of a fat old lady who was a spoil sport.

"As for going walking or skating [illegible] alone with a young man or with other girls [illegible] mother [illegible] of such a thing. I [illegible] that [illegible] I was [illegible] out of [illegible] and good times, and before [illegible] that [illegible] my [illegible]

We Should Celebrate the Landing of the Pilgrims by a Permanent Monument of Noble Achievement

AN exposition is like circles caused by a disturbance in the water, which expand and expand until they disappear, leaving the water more stagnant than before.

The landing of the Pilgrims really deserves a more permanent monument than an exposition. Of the movements in America, probably the least tainted with commercialism was the coming of the Pilgrims.

The celebration of the discovery by Columbus of America by the Chicago Exposition was the celebration of a great achievement which had as its motives riches and empire. The celebration of the Louisiana Purchase at St. Louis was the celebration of a shrewd American bargain by Thomas Jefferson with Napoleon. The exposition at San Francisco was the celebration of a scientific achievement to promote commerce and our military power. But the celebration of the landing of the Pilgrims will be unique because it will commemorate for the first time a great sacrifice for a great cause and sentiment, unadulterated by any motive of commerce or aggrandizement.

Why can we not commemorate it, therefore, by some permanent accomplishment which shall be a lasting benefit to the people of Massachusetts, a benefit which we can dedicate to the Pilgrims and which will be known always as our act in celebration of their sacrifice and in emulation of their example?

We might do something unusual and permanent to alleviate poverty in this State. We might do something unusual and permanent to alleviate the terrible drug habit which investigation is now showing to be so dangerous to the character of our community. We might all unite to devise a code of laws which all men would acknowledge are better than the laws we have—better for those without wealth or influence and station in life, and better for the great majority. We might make the coming Constitutional Convention part of the celebration of the Pilgrim era.

These are but suggestions. There are a thousand things which we might do which would be of lasting value to our people—a permanent monument to the Pilgrims, which an exposition could not be.

The Massachusetts Agricultural College Should Not Be Stinted

WE have considered very carefully the defence by President Butterfield of the Massachusetts Agricultural College of the management of that institution and his request for an annual State appropriation of two hundred thousand dollars for five years. President Butterfield's statement is convincing.

An earnest citizen, who took the trouble to gather considerable facts concerning the cost of the Massachusetts Agricultural College and of other colleges throughout the country, charged the Massachusetts Agricultural College with being uneconomically managed and cited figures which, on their face, appeared to prove his contention. But President Butterfield's reply, under date of April 5, is calculated entirely to restore one's confidence in the Massachusetts Agricultural College and in Mr. Butterfield. Certainly no investigation by the State officials, and there have been several, has elicited either proof or even charges of mismanagement.

There is no greater field for the development of our resources than the field of agriculture, and no investment which will yield greater indirect returns to the Commonwealth than the instruction of our people concerning the most productive use of our soil. When we consider how crowded and over-populated Germany, by intensive cultivation of the soil, has become self-supporting and able even to make a profit from the cultivation and commercial sale of trees, we can get some glimpse of the wealth which lies at hand in this State and country on the ill-used fields and abandoned farms.

The Massachusetts Agricultural College ought to be given money enough to continue the work it is doing. If there is any criticism of the character of the work, it should not be met by stinting the college's resources, but by insisting upon a change of methods of instruction.

Tampering with Pure Food Laws Should Stop

AMONG the many attempts which the present Legislature is making to characterize as reactionary the return of the Republican party to the full control of the government is the scheme afoot to emasculate some of our pure food laws by placing upon the State Department of Health alone the burden of gathering the evidence of a violation of law, which it is not organized sufficiently to sustain. We want no reactionary tampering with our pure food laws. We want all the protection against adulteration and impurity of food which these laws now give us. Rather should we strengthen than weaken them.

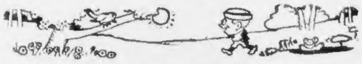
More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

The Prisoners



THE frogs are piping in the pond; the robins, in the trees,
Spend all the pleasant afternoon in idleness and ease;
The woodchuck ventures from his lair and dozes in the sun
Without a guilty feeling that his school-work isn't done,
Across the hills in shining squads the happy blackbirds wing,
No dingy schoolroom walls have they to shut them from the Spring.

BUT though the wind comes warm and soft to whisper at the door
And fresh new violets lift their heads above the forest floor,
And little hearts are all aglow with longing to be free
And search for early blossoms with the newly wakened bee,
The prison hours drag along till four o'clock, and then,
A little play—a little sleep—and back to school again.

AND when vacation time is here with golden idle hours,
No more beside the river spring the first and fairest flowers,
The birds have left their emptied nests, the grass with dust is gray,
And gone is all the wondertime of April and of May,
And through it all how sad it was to hear the school bell ring
And know it sounded the command that summoned one from Spring.

AND sadder still it is to know that in the years to be
And Spring shall call, as Spring has called each year to you and me,
The school will be in session still—a school with sterner hours,
To prison longing hearts away from birds and bees and flowers,
For there is but one changeless rule for children and for men:
A little play—a little sleep—then back to school again.

Have We Triumphed in Scarlet Fever?

By Woods Hutchinson, M. D.

The World's Best Known Writer on Medical Subjects

PART I.

THE early symptoms of scarlet fever are also the early symptoms of that commonest of all the Little Fevers, a bad cold or a sore throat. This, however, is no drawback, for from a practical point of view it makes little or no difference what fever your child is coming down with, so long as you recognize promptly that an infection is coming, and act accordingly. "Isolate in haste and make your diagnosis at leisure," is the rule of safety.

The moment the little one shows any two or three of these general danger signals of infection, or "colds," he should be put to rest at once, in a comfortable bed, flat, firm, elastic and with plenty of room in it for him to tumble about and roll over, in a quiet, well ventilated room; given a mild laxative, a hot bath and all the pure water, lemonade or other fruit-juice drinks that he craves. Then if he doesn't quickly improve, call in the doctor and let him decide what particular fever he has and give the appropriate treatment.

Children showing any of these danger signals should no more be sent to school, or to any entertainment, or public resort, than they should be sent out bareheaded in a snowstorm or barefoot in the sleet and slush. They will get nothing but harm from any sort of work which they attempt to do when in this condition and be a source of nothing but danger to their classmates and playmates.

If the Little Fever proves to be scarlet fever, the headache becomes much more severe, the fever goes up very rapidly, often reaching 104 degrees in twenty-four hours, the throat becomes very sore and swallowing so painful that it is sometimes hard to tell, at this stage, whether we are dealing with diphtheria or scarlet fever.

On the second or third day a bright, speckled, crimson or scarlet rash appears, which has given its name to the disease, first upon the neck and upper part of the chest. From this it spreads rapidly all over the body until the little sufferer is literally as red as a boiled lobster from forehead to toes.

Fortunately the worst is soon reached and passed, and by the third to the fifth day the fever reaches its height and begins to decline, so that usually within a week or ten days at the outside the active part of the fever is over. The throat becomes more comfortable, the rash fades and the child begins to take some interest in his surroundings and gets back his appetite.

In-Shoots

After a fellow reaches the top he often forgets what his friends down below are doing.

There is nothing more painful than the attempt at a joke which falls short of the mark.

Women Have Proved Their Worth as Voters

Many Reforms Wrought and Much Wrong and Suffering Eliminated in Western States Since Equal Suffrage Has Prevailed, Records Show

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

WOMEN are voting in twelve States. What are women doing with the vote is the question asked by anti-suffragettes and the people on the fence. Colorado has had its women voting for twenty years; California for one year. It is said "Colorado represents the old with its evolutions; California stands for the new with its revolutions."

Here are some of the laws mothered by the women of California. (This compilation is verified by Francis J. Heney and Judge W. P. Lawlor). Raising the age of consent from sixteen to eighteen; juvenile court amendment separating dependent from delinquent children; requiring fathers to support illegitimate children; requiring certificate of health from men as a precedent to the marriage license; minimum wage law; workmen's compensation law; mothers' pension law; teachers' pension law; granting a pension of $500 a year to teachers who have been in service thirty years; joint guardianship law; requirement of a wife's signature to the assignment of a husband's wages; a prison reform bill; raising the age of child workers from twelve to fifteen; a billboard nuisance act and an amendment to the liquor law, hitting particularly at San Francisco's all night sale; the red light abatement law, placing the responsibility of illegal resorts upon the owners, lessees, rather than on the inmates, and forbidding such places.

Working Women Get Justice in Equal States

These are only a few of the excellent reforms which the women voters have mothered. In a general way this denotes the usual trend of the woman vote in all the equal suffrage States. In none of the equal franchise States has woman failed to free herself of notorious political disabilities and ancient injustices or neglected to acquire what she considers her full right.

An eight-hour day for the working woman is a boon possessed by equal suffrage States alone. It took Massachusetts forty years to win the partial reform that Utah got in two; that is, the compromise of nine hours in place of ten.

In the matter of taking poverty out of the list of crimes the equal suffrage States lead easily. All the equal suffrage States except Arizona have mothers' pension laws that stopped the cruel business of kidnaping children because the mother cannot earn enough to keep the wolf from the door. Only fourteen non-suffrage States adopted this humane measure.

Every one of the equal suffrage States has a complete compulsory education law; every one of them makes a great and brilliant fight against illiteracy. The ten most illiterate States in the Union are NOT equal suffrage States.

The Anti-Suffragists have made a statement that the "bad women" control the election in the equal suffrage States. By bad women they mean immoral women.

One cannot help but wonder how many virtuous men go to the polls.

Idaho has a law prohibiting persons of lewd life from voting. In Wyoming, where equal suffrage is forty-five years old, there are two members of the Legislature and a number of women serving as superintendents of schools.

In Colorado there were two women in the Legislature in the lower house and one in the Senate in 1914; Utah has three women in the Legislature; Washington two; Oregon and Arizona have each one woman Senator. Instead of being "inveterate office seekers," as they have been accused of being, Mr. George Creel declares that voting women have refused to show the interest in office holding that is entailed by their percentage of the vote.

No Divorce Ever Based on Women's Use of Vote

As far as divorce statistics may be trusted the equal suffrage States point to the fact that there is not an instance on record of a divorce arising from anything connected with the vote. This statement is laid down as a challenge. In Colorado there is an equal suffrage aid association composed of the most prominent men in the State organized for the sole purpose of denying falsehood and refuting slanders. (It would be well if every neighborhood contained such a society.)

Senator Charles S. Thomas, an ex-Governor, Southern born, and the possessor of a voting wife and voting daughters, expresses the male sentiment of Colorado when he says:

"The one offensive feature of equal suffrage has been the flood of blackguardly abuse heaped upon our women by foes of the movement. The supposition that inclusion in the responsibilities of citizenship implies the instant degradation of our wives, mothers, sisters and daughters, can only proceed from mental perversion and degeneracy."

Mrs. Grenfell, a brilliant citizen of Colorado, says: "The opponents of equal suffrage never tire of declaring that woman's place is in the home. I agree with them most heartily; it is because of the home that I want women to have the vote; there are fully eight million women forced to work outside the home by the necessities of existence. Is this vast army of underpaid, overworked toilers to have no voice at all?"

In an address before the Navy League of the United States at Washington, Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont said:

"This country talks of preparedness and the men gathered here are especially interested in that subject.

"All preparation should be based on justice. Preparation for war should be based in this country on justice to women.

U. S. Should Not Wait for War to Compel Justice

"Mr. Carnegie never sees the armor plate that his steel plant produces. He certainly suffers no pain in producing it. But when you take his armor and put it on your ships, you pay him his price and you don't tell him that he has nothing to say about that which he has produced.

"When you take Mr. Schwab's shrapnel, or somebody else's submarine, you admit that the maker is entitled to consideration. You cannot have any preparedness for war except such as based upon the assumption that women will continue to supply you indefinitely with the chief material for war.

"I am here to say that when this war ends England will be compelled to recognize the fact that the women who manufactured and contributed every man left dead on the continent are entitled, in future wars, to have their say and express their will.

"And I am here to say that the people of America will act more wisely and prepare more fully if they consent, without the bitter experience of war, to recognize the rights and the place in our republic of the one great and only indispensable ammunition factory on earth—WOMAN."
